This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

PREFACE

Books and references followed by a call number, "Law library" or "N. Y. S. L." are in the New York state library. Pamphlets and books with a class number but no book number have not yet been added to the card catalogue; those lacking both class and book number have not been personally examined.

Abbreviations have been used for other libraries in which books and references were examined as follows:

Mass.	Massachusetts state library
B. P. L.	Boston public library
Harv.	Harvard university library

All other abbreviations are selfexplanatory. Volume and page number are separated by a colon; e. g. 11 : 319 means v. 11, p. 319.

Books analyzed are not elsewhere entered in full; municipal monopolies, patents and reports of law suits have not been included. The bibliography is chiefly confined to publications between 1895 and 1899, but a few 1900 publications have been added.

BIOGRAPHY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

PREFACE

This list is intended as an aid in selecting children's books for libraries and also as a guide to parents and teachers. It is chiefly confined to books for children under 16 years old but as the age for which any book is suited depends on individual development some books intended for older readers are included. For high school girls and boys who wish more extended reading, some of the "American men of letters" series and more of the "Heroes of the nations" series than here included, such as Nelson, Gustavus Adolphus, Pericles, Theodoric, Cicero and Henry of Navarre, are recommended. With a few exceptions the Abbott biographic histories, though entertaining, and containing a certain amount of desirable information, are omitted as too highly colored. But few of the many biographies published by educational firms for school use are included, as they are usually abridged or otherwise adapted to class work.

The selection is purposely broad in order to cover as wide a field as possible with material suitable for all ages and to include information about books often quoted. As an aid in choosing from so large a number, a single star is used to designate books above the average and two stars to single out the best books in the list.

The letters a, b, c, have been prefixed to author's name to indicate broadly to what age a book is best adapted: a 12 to 16 years, b 8 to 12 years, c under 8 years.

Unsigned notes are by the compiler; sources of other notes are given whether condensed or quoted exactly. References following notes are to more extended reviews and notices.

ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations following main entries refer to the libraries in which the books were consulted. Call numbers (i. e. class and book number) are given for all books in the New York state library even though the edition differs from that described in the list; but class number only is given for books in the traveling collection. Books marked e have been personally examined, while e shows that the edition examined differs from that entered in the list. Volume and page numbers are separated by a colon; e. g. 16:114 means v. 16, p. 114.

Abbreviations not selfexplanatory are as follows:

PARTIAL LIST

FRENCH GOVERNMENT SERIALS

IN AMERICAN LIBRARIES

Prepared by the

A. L. A. COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN DOCUMENTS

PREFACE

This list originated in a suggestion made to the foreign documents committee some years ago by Mr Clement W. Andrews, and is the direct outcome of his own work. It was not at first proposed, nor has it since been attempted, to compile an exhaustive bibliography of French documents. The aim has been simply to produce a title list of such serials found in certain American libraries. The scope of the work is defined in its title -- "A partial list of French government serials" — and nothing more than this should be looked for in it. Among important publications excluded are the legislative proceedings of the several revolutionary assemblies, those of the consulate and the empire, and the annual financial reports (comptes) of the several departments. Other omissions will be readily observed.

Yet to compile even a partial list of this nature involves an amount of labor surprisingly disproportionate to the result. Librarians will be among the first to admit this; and, since the list was undertaken primarily on their behalf, the foreign documents committee hopes for indulgence from a portion, at least, of its critics. That there are discrepancies in the work, none can know so well as its compilers. The latter are aware also of a defect particularly hard to eliminate from a cooperative list like the present--want of complete uniformity in the entries. It has not been attempted to group all the different titles of the same serial under a single heading, but to bring together under one heading those titles which have changed while the volume numbering remains consecutive; when an alteration of title coincides with a new series of volume numbers, the changed title has been adopted as a heading. The committee hopes that the connection between related entries has been made clear by means of notes and references; if in spite of defects, the list proves serviceable, the sole purpose in compiling it will have been fulfilled.

The thanks of the committee are heartily extended to those who have assisted by suggestions and corrections, and to those who have indicated which documents are in their own libraries. To Mr Andrews and Miss Adelaide R. Hasse the committee is specially indebted. To Mr Andrews's personal efforts, both in collecting material and in arranging for publication what he had brought together, completion of the work is in large measure due. Second only to that of Mr Andrews is the service rendered by Miss Hasse. To her long continued assistance, in transcribing, compiling, revising and editing, is due much of such value as the list may possess. The director of the New York state library, too, has placed the committee deeply in his debt, not only by publishing the list as one of his library bulletins, but also by allowing type to stand while the proof was being corrected, a period that must have seemed to him unreasonably long.

The chairman's own labors (though he has no desire to disclaim his share of responsibility) have been chiefly confined to the pleasant task of writing these introductory remarks. Even this he might have been inclined to leave in more competent hands were it not that his slight share in the work had left him free to indicate and thank those who have borne its brunt.

Journal officiel de la république française, 1869–1901. Année 1–33, f° & 4°. Par. Quai Voltaire, 31. Un an, 40fr. (Intérieur, Ministère de l')

Le journal officiel est actuellement divisé en cinq parties, avec pagiuations distinctes: une partie consacrée aux lois, décrets, actes, et documents administratifs (le journal officiel); le compte rendu in extenso des séances du sénat (débats parlementaires du sénat); les documents parlementaires du sénat; le compte rendu in extenso des séances de la chambre des députés (débats parlementaires de la chambre); les documents parlementaires de la chambre.—(Block)

As nearly as the compiler of this item has been able to learn this division did not take place until 1882, the comptes rendus before that date having been published as separate issues under the authority of the several administrations. For instance, the Annales du sénat et de la chambre . . . cover from 1876 to 1882, and continued the Annales de l'assemblée nationale, which covers from 1871 to 1876, and continues the Compte rendu analytique des séances du corps législatif . . . from 1869 to 1870, and so on back until the Procès-verbal of the assemblée nationale constituyante (1789) is reached. These procès-verbaux, of which there are at least 17 different series from 1789 to 1882, form a complement to the Journal officiel, till the merging of the two issues took place, presumably in 1882.

Ces cinq académies n'ont pas eu une existence distincte de 1795 à 1816. La loi du 8 août 1793 avait supprimé toutes les anciennes académies et quand la convention fonda l'institut, le 25 octobre 1795, elle décida qu'il serait divisé en trois classes: 1re Sciences physiques et mathématiques; 2e Sciences morales et politiques; 3e Littérature et beaux-arts. Un arrêté des consuls, rendu le 28 janvier 1803, modifia cette organisation et divisa l'institut en quatre classes: Sciences physiques et mathématiques; Langue et littérature française; Histoire et littérature ancienne; Beaux-arts. Pendant toute cette période, l'institut porta successivement les noms d'Institut national des sciences et arts (1795), d'Institut national de France (1803), d'Institut de France (1806), d'Institut impérial (1811) et d'Institut royal (1814). L'ordonnance du 21 mars 1816 remplaça les dénominations des classes par celles qui subsistent encore aujourd'hui.

La collection des travaux de l'Institut national des sciens et des arts comprend:

1 CLASSE DES SCIENCES MATHÉMATIQUES ET PHYSIQUES

Mémoires, 1799-1806. 6v.
Notice des travaux de la classe des sciences mathématiques et physiques, du 2e trimestre an 9 au 1re trimestre an 11.

NEW YORK STATE LIBRARY AND HOME EDUCATION

Scope of library. The state library includes general, sociology, law, medical, education and history libraries and the Library school. Besides the usual work of a great reference library, its field covers compilation of catalogues, bibliographies, indexes, reference lists and other aids and guides for readers not having direct access to the library, lending books to students and promotion of the general library interests of the state.

Use. As the library was founded for the benefit of the people of the whole state, books not readily accessible elsewhere and not so much used at Albany as to make their brief absence from the shelves serious are lent under the rules guarding against loss or undue detention to:

1 Any institution in the University.

2 Any registered public or free library.

3 Responsible heads of state institutions, departments or courts, or to those connected with the state government and needing books for use in their official work.

4 Registered study clubs, extension centers, summer schools or other recognized educational agencies.

5 Any resident of the state making studies or investigations in which he needs the assistance of the state library, provided that his responsibility is known to the library or that he gives satisfactory references or makes a deposit covering the value of the books.

The library recognizes this lending of books to distant points as a very important part of its work and aims to help the largest number possible of those needing its assistance, not only by lending but also by recommending the best books and furnishing, through its home education department devoted specially to such work, printed or manuscript aids to those pursuing studies or courses of reading without a teacher.

Distribution of publications. The library maintains a large exchange list and readily sends corresponding publications in return for those received from all parts of the world; but as a protection against waste, and to enable those really needing state publications to secure them, they are now sent free (preference always being given to New York institutions or citizens) only as follows:

1) to leading libraries at home and abroad which agree to catalogue and preserve them permanently for public use;

2) to educational and scientific institutions engaged in similar work, and sending us their own publications;

3) to individuals who have given us such books, pamphlets, specimens or services as merit recognition by complimentary copies.

To others any publications still in print and accessible are sold at a price covering only cost of printing and postage.

Besides annual department reports and bulletins the state library has for exchange and sale many valuable historical and scientific works as well as bulletins, syllabuses and handbooks not properly classed as annual publications. Detailed information is given in the annotated price list, to be had on request.

Library school. This is carried on in connection with the state library as an essential factor in the new work undertaken by the regents under the reorganization of 1889. The University law makes the regents responsible for the library interests of the state and authorizes the state library to give instruction and assistance in organizing and administering libraries. Students receive from the library staff careful training in library economy, bibliography, cataloguing, classification and other duties of professional librarianship. The Library school handbook [66 pages] gives full information of the requirements for admission, course and expenses.

Home education department. This includes promotion, sympathetic assistance and supervision of summer, vacation, evening and correspondence schools and other forms of extension teaching, lectures, university extension courses, study clubs, lyceums, debating societies, literary clubs and other agencies for promoting and extending more widely opportunities and facilities for education to those unable to attend the usual teaching institutions.

Study clubs of five or more members devoting not less than 10 weeks to one subject may be registered as entitled to advice and help from the study club division, to traveling libraries and books from the state library, to photographs, lantern slides and other illustrative material. The reports enable the various organizations to profit by each other's experience and thus avoid dissipating energy in working out problems already solved.

The most potent factors in home education are: 1) putting the best reading within reach of all citizens by traveling libraries and annotated book lists; 2) aid given in organizing new and increasing efficiency of established local libraries by the public libraries division, through which the state yearly expends about $60,000 for the benefit of free libraries. This division is devoted to promoting general library interests of the state and in all practicable ways assisting communities willing to do their part in providing the best reading for their citizens.

Sociology division

Bulletins. No. 1–7, 9–11, 13, 15, Summary and index of legislation. These are minutely classified annual summaries of new laws passed by all the states, followed by a full alphabetic index of specific topics, and have been published since 1890.

No. 8, State finance statistics. A bulletin giving a comparative summary of state finance statistics for 1890 and 1895 was published in March 1897. There will be a similar bulletin for 1900 and each succeeding fifth year.

No. 12, Trend of legislation in the United States.

No. 14, Taxation of corporations in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

These bulletins may be had postpaid for $1 a volume consisting of five numbers or for 25 cents a copy, except no. 8 which is 10 cents, no. 11, 50 cents and no. 12, 5 cents. Volume 1 began in 1890, volume 2 in 1895, and volume 3 with number 11 in 1899. Subscriptions for future numbers or orders for back numbers should be addressed to State Library, Albany, and checks or money orders be made payable to University of the State of New York.

Card indexes. A consolidated card index of state legislation, beginning with 1890, makes it easy to refer to laws on any subject in any state within the past 10 years. As fast as advance sheets of new laws are received they are summarized on cards and classified. A special library on comparative legislation is being collected, which is supplemented with catalogues and indexes This makes it possible to furnish promptly summaries of recent legislation on any subject.

Research. The library with its 325,000 volumes affords unusual advantages for research. Its collections in law, public documents, statistics, political science, economics, administration and allied subjects are unusually valuable and are being rapidly increased. Students of public law or economics who are unable to come to the library may have bibliographies prepared and information gathered for them by trained assistants. A charge is made for work of this kind covering the salary value of the time spent on it, usually ranging from 50c to $1 an hour; but such work is always assigned to the least expensive assistant competent to do it satisfactorily. Requests for research on these subjects should be addressed Sociology Librarian, State Library.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1901

WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1901, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the state. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries prepared to buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy of careful consideration by libraries prepared to buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge their resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the New York State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to the smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to the schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here, which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase by the school.

Copies of this list may be obtained for 10 cents from the New York State Library, Albany N. Y.

Eight stories of ruling passions shown in the lives of simple people. Scenes in Canada and Adirondacks.

Vielé, H. K. The Last of the Knickerbockers. Stone $1.50
Romance of social situations in New York. Up to date in slang and satire yet not unpoetic in portrayal of relations between past and present.

Ward, Mrs E. S. (Phelps). The Successors of Mary the First. Houghton $1.50
Humorous tale of woes with incompetent servants.

Watson, John. "Ian Maclaren" pseud. Young Barbarians. Dodd net $1.35
Doings in a Scottish boys boarding school.

Wharton, Edith. Crucial Instances. Scribner $1.50
Subtle and extremely clever stories, original in plot, displaying an unerring instinct for the right word and a rare sense of form.

a Wilkins, M. E. The Portion of Labor. Harper $1.50
Story dominated by questions of capital and labor, of a lovable girl's development in a New England factory town.

Wyatt, Edith. Every One his own Way. McClure $1.50
Instantaneous photographs of Chicago types, accenting contrasts between simple, wholesome emotions of commonplace people and the attitudes of dyspeptic culture. Abrupt and direct style.

JUVENILE BOOKS

293 Foster, M. H. & Cummings, M. H. Asgard Stories. Silver 36c
Tales from Norse mythology retold for children.

398.2 Gibbon, J. M. ed. In the Reign of Old King Cole. (True Annals of Fairyland) Macmillan $2

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1902

WITH NOTES

To the Librarian PREFATORY NOTE

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1902, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries prepared to buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy of careful consideration by libraries prepared to buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge their resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the New York State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. Serial numbers of the Library of Congress printed catalogue cards are given in note type, for the convenience of libraries wishing to order them.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to the smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to the schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study to justify their purchase by the school.

Copies of this list may be obtained for 10 cents from the New York State Library, Albany N. Y.

A SELECTION OF

CATALOGUERS REFERENCE BOOKS

IN

PREFACE

This is a revised and enlarged edition of Selection of Reference Books for Use of Cataloguers in Finding Full Names issued January 1898 as Bibliography bulletin 5.

The selection is made almost entirely from the author side to guide in identifying books and finding full names. Some useful books included in the earlier list have been omitted because superseded for ordinary use by more complete or better arranged works. With few exceptions subject bibliographies have not been included but these may often be helpful, also city directories, and many general collections of literature, anthologies, books of quotations, etc. having sketches of authors or author indexes. A few works not given in this list may be found in Charles H. Hull's article on "Biographical Dictionaries" in Johnson's Universal Cyclopaedia (1894-95) 1:629.

Dictionaries of special subjects are useful in selecting subject headings for a dictionary catalogue but they have not as a rule been included unless containing biographic material, but may be found in Alice B. Kroeger's Guide to the Study and Use of Reference Books, which also contains many helpful notes.

Books marked with * are used in the course in elementary cataloguing in the New York State Library School. Many books in the list are also used in the bibliography and reference courses. As the list is primarily for the use of our cataloguers and the Library School, only books in the New York State Library are included. Absence of call number shows that a book has been ordered but not yet received. Books for which class number only is given have not yet been entered in the new card catalogue. After the list of most used general cyclopedias and dictionaries, other books have been grouped in an alphabetic arrangement of countries and special subjects.

Prices are not given in every case. Those easily found in current records and also many original prices and approximate present prices have been included. Net prices are indicated by n, subscription prices by subs. For current periodical publications the yearly subscription price is generally given. The following are the forms used for foreign prices with their approximate American equivalents:

		cents			cents
£	pound	487	kreutzer (Austrian)		.5
/	shilling	24	krone; pl. kronen (Austrian)		20
c	centime	.2	l	lira	19
ct	cent (Dutch)	.4	m	mark	24
d	penny	2	ngr	neugroschen	2.5
f	gulde (Dutch florijn)	40	öre		.25
fl	florin (Austrian)	49	peseta; pl. pesetas		19
fr	franc	19	pf	pfennig	.25

kr	krona (Swedish)	27	sk	skilling	1
kr	krone (Danish and Norwegian)	27	spd	speciedaler	91
			tlr	thaler	72

In compiling the list Charles H. Hull's article on "Helps for Cataloguers in Finding Full Names" (Library Journal, Jan.–Feb. 1889, 14:7–20) has proved specially valuable. We are also greatly indebted to the cordial cooperation of the numerous librarians to whom the original list was sent for suggestions. The replies received were most helpful and nearly all the books suggested have been included in the present list.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1903

WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

To the Librarian

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1903, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. For convenience of libraries wishing to use them, Library of Congress printed catalogue card serial numbers are given in note type; also references to reviews. A short list of older books in materially altered editions, or transferred to other publishers, is appended.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process of publication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French, on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need.

Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study to justify their purchase by the school.

REFERENCE BOOKS

016.823 b Baker, E. A. Descriptive Guide to the Best Fiction, British and American. Macmillan $2.50

3-8699 4500 titles, grouped by period, with descriptive notes, publishers and prices; also lists of historical romances arranged chronologically. Includes chief translations of foreign novels. Fully indexed and surprisingly excellent in selection and annotation.
Nation, 76:249; Ath. 1903, 1:402; Acad. 64:225

027 Clark, J: W. The Care of Books: an Essay on the Development of Libraries and their Fittings from the Earliest Times to the End of the 18th Century. Macmillan $5 n

2-10340 Concerned with buildings and methods of care and administration, not literary content. Deals largely with university and monastic types. Scholarly, sumptuously printed, 156 illustrations.
Acad. 61:460; Ath. 1901, 2:624

070 Shuman, E. L. Practical Journalism: a Complete Manual of the Best Newspaper Methods. Appleton $1.25 n

3-19681 On the reporter's education, positions, salaries, newsgathering, the Sunday supplement, women in newspaper work, advertisements, law of libel and copyright, etc. Julian Ralph's Making of a Journalist, Harper $1.25 n., largely an account of his own experiences, is entertaining and suggestive; Gavit's Reporter's Manual, J. P. Gavit, Albany, $1 n., is a compact, self-indexing pocket book of valuable suggestion to the untrained and useful reminder to the experienced.
Nation, 77:306

920.042 b Lee, Sidney, ed. Dictionary of National Biography: Index and Epitome. Macmillan $6.25 n

3-12075 Summary of monumental work in 66 volumes. Every person entered there receives here approximately one fourteenth of original space. 30,378 articles, 3474 cross references. Specially valuable to libraries unable to buy expensive set for authoritative sketches and characterizations of distinguished Englishmen.
Ath. 1903, 1:559; Sat. R. 95:590; Nation, 76:476

PHILOSOPHY

133.9 Podmore, Frank. Modern Spiritualism: A History and a Criticism. 2v. Scribner $5 n

3-5164 Likely to become the standard work on the subject. He is the most sceptical of psychical researchers, and possesses extensive and firsthand acquaintance with the evidence. Nation, 76:158
Dial, 34:79; Sat. R. 95:110; Spec. 90:216

134 Myers, F: W. H. Human Personality and its Survival of Bodily Death. 2v. (42/n) Longmans $12 n

3-3539 Exhaustive array of the phenomena of genius, sleep, hypnotism, sensory automatism, phantasms of the dead, motor automatism, trance, possession and ecstacy, with elaborate argument to prove that personality survives death.
Acad. 64:197; Critic, 42:461 (J: W. Chadwick), Sat. R. 95:424; Spec. 90:373

ETHICS

171 Keller, Helen. Optimism: an Essay. Crowell 75c n

3-30975 Three brief chapters embodying the cheerful and hopeful philosophy of the afflicted but brave young author.

177 c Bell, Mrs Hugh. The Minor Moralist. (Bell 4/6 n) Longmans $1.60 n

3-15146 Essays, characterized by good sense and lightened by touches of humor, on good manners, making a success of middle life, relations of mothers and daughters, beginning life with high ideals, merits and demerits of thrift, lot of the servant.
Acad. 64:246; Spec. 90:366

RELIGION

221 c McFadyen, J: E. Old Testament Criticism and the Christian Church. Scribner $1.50 n

3-12775 Book about criticism, not critical book about Bible. Tries to show what criticism is, that it in no way imperils faith but rather helps to bridge gulf between faith and reason.
Outlook, 74:431; Acad. 65:411

221.95 Pinches, T. G. Old Testament in the Light of Historical Records and Legends of Assyria and Babylonia. Ed. 2 enl. (S. P. C. K. 7/6) Young $2.50 n

READING LIST ON ETHICS

PREFACE

The aim has been to make the following list suitable for the beginner in philosophy and to include in it some of the notable books in the literature of ethics. So far as possible each title was chosen on the authority of reliable critics, and it is attempted to present under each subject a treatment which shall be at once temperate, authoritative and of recognized merit. The classification of the theories follows that given by J: H: Muirhead in his Elements of Ethics; the division " Field of Ethics," was suggested by Professor Palmer's book with the same title, but in the main the grouping follows the Decimal Classification; arrangement of theories under the several headings is chronologic.

ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations following main entries refer to the libraries in which the books were consulted or to the sources from which entries were taken. Call numbers (i.e. class and book number) are given for all books in the New York State Library even though the edition differs from that described in the list; class number only is given for books in the traveling collection. Books marked e have been personally examined, while e indicates that the edition examined is not the same as the one entered in the list.

The source of critical notes is given, whether quoted exactly or given in substance; unsigned notes are by the compiler. Volume and page numbers are separated by a colon: e. g. 3:145 means vol. 3, p. 145.

Abbreviations not self-explanatory are as follows:

B. P. L.	Boston Public Library
Bowdoin	Bowdoin College Library
Columbia	Columbia University Library
Harvard	Harvard University Library
Internat. Jour. of Ethics	International Journal of Ethics
Sidgwick	Sidgwick. Outlines of the History of Ethics. 1886
Stephen	Stephen. Dictionary of National Biography. 1885–1900
Wundt	Wundt. Ethical Systems. 1897

INTRODUCTORY MANUALS

Mackenzie, John Stuart. Manual of Ethics, designed for the use of students. Ed. 3. 456p. D. Lond. 1897. Clive 6/16. (Univ. Corres. College, Tutorial Ser.) Bowdoin 170.2 M191 e

Sold also by Hinds, $1.50.

Mr Mackenzie's Manual of Ethics is not only a very good textbook for beginners, it is also likely to interest the general reader, and ought not to be neglected even by the specialist. It contains full and valuable references on every important question, and gives in an appendix "Hints on further reading" which ought to prove very useful to the genuine student. G. F. Stout in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1893, 4:120

Muirhead, John Henry. Elements of Ethics, an introduction to moral philosophy. 239p.D. N.Y. 1892. Scribner $1. (Univ. Extension Manuals) Bowdoin 171 M89 e

Published also by Murray, 3/.

This is the first attempt made in this country [England] to state in a popular way the main ethical doctrines of the English idealists. To all except experts the Prolegomena of the late Professor Green is a book seven times sealed. . . and Professor Caird's ethical views are buried in his commentaries. It was with the hope of placing these authors within reach of "the beginner in philosophy," together with the greater writers of whom they are exponents, that Mr Muirhead wrote his book. Henry Jones in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1892, 3:113

FIELD OF ETHICS

Esthetics and ethics

Palmer, George Herbert. The Glory of the Imperfect, an address given at the first commencement of the Woman's College of Western Reserve University, Cleveland O. 1891. 29p.D. Bost. 1891. Heath 25c. Bowdoin e

Sketches in a clear and convincing way the meaning of the moral life and shows that in human life "completeness of the parts," that which constitutes beauty, is never reached.

Santayana, George. The Sense of Beauty, being the outlines of aesthetic theory. 275p. D. N.Y. 1896. Scribner $1.50. Bowdoin 701 Sa5 e

Distinguishes between the moral demand for what ought to be "ideal perfection" and "the perception of beauty" being "the possession of that which is as it ought to be — real perfection." J. D. Logan in Philosophical Rev. Mar. 1897, 6:212

Sharp, Frank Chapman. The Aesthetic Element in Morality and its Place in a Utilitarian Theory of Morals. 131p.O. N.Y. 1893. Macmillan 75c. Bowdoin e

An interesting attempt to determine the grounds of our esthetic judgments in regard to human conduct from the point of view of utilitarianism. The great defect of his essay is the almost total absence of sympathetic or historical point of view. John Watson in Philosophical Rev. July 1893, 2:499

Evolution and ethics

Huxley, Thomas Henry. The Romanes Lecture 1893; Evolution and Ethics, delivered in the Sheldonian Theatre, May 18, 1893. 57p. O. Lond. 1893. Macmillan 2/. Bowdoin 171.7 H98 e

Published also by Humboldt, 15c, and in Huxley's Collected Essays, v.9, Appleton $1.25.

Its interest lies chiefly in the fact that though written by one of the most enthusiastic of our biologic evolutionists, it entirely repudiates the idea that ethics can be founded on a mere study of the evolutionary process of animal life. J: S. Mackenzie in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1893, 4:126

Schurman, Jacob Gould. Ethical Import of Darwinism. 264p. D. Lond. 1888. Williams & Norgate 5/ Bowdoin 171.7 Sch 8 e

Published also by Scribner, $1.50.

The object of the present volume is to distinguish between science and speculation in the application of Darwinism to morals. The results of evolutionary science in the domain of matter and in the domain of life are everywhere taken for granted; the philosophic and, more especially, the ethical theories currently associated with them are subjected to the most searching scrutiny I have been able to make. Preface, p. 8

Law and ethics

Hibben, John Grier. Relation of Ethics to Jurisprudence. (see Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Jan. 1894, 4:133–60)
Bowdoin 170.5 In8 e

Attempts "in the first place, to define accurately the proper spheres of the two sciences; secondly, to prove that the genesis of law discloses natural limitations of sovereign power which are ethical in their character; thirdly, to indicate the indirect and impalpable influence of existing ethical sentiment in creating, annulling and reforming law; and, finally, to examine several contributions to the solution of this problem from the sphere of international law." Book, p. 134

Holland, Thomas Erskine. Laws as Rules of Human Action. (see his Elements of Jurisprudence. 1895. p. 23–37)
Bowdoin 340 e

Published by Clarendon Press (7th ed.) 402p. O, 10/6; also by Macmillan $3.

Insists on the separation of ethics and jurisprudence. Grouping the moral sciences under the head of ethic the author dismisses them as foreign to the subject of jurisprudence.

Political economy and ethics

Ely, Richard Theodore. Ethics and Economics. (see his Social Aspects of Christianity. 1889. p. 115–32)
Bowdoin 261.6 El9 e

Published by Crowell, 132p.D, 90c.

Points out that the course of economic thought is largely in the direction of what ought to be and that the ethical conception of political economy harmonizes with recent tendencies in ethics.

Wright, Carroll Davidson. Relation of Political Economy to the Labor Question. 58p. S. Bost. 1882. Williams 60c. o.p?.
Bowdoin 331 W931 e

Emphasizes the moral side of economics.

Reviewed in Nation, 31 Aug. 1882, 35:184

Religion and ethics

Fiske, John. Through Nature to God. 194p. D. Bost. 1899. Houghton $1. Bowdoin 210 F54 e

The adjustment of the human soul to God is the highest form of life: it implies a real relation of realities, a real adjustment of inner to outer, unless the principle of evolution, found valid in the sphere of the seen world, must not be extended to the sphere where one side of the relation lies beyond human knowledge. Professor Fiske contends that this extension is inevitable. This is the passage through nature to God. R. A. Wright in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Ap. 1900, 10:406

Palmer, George Herbert. Ethics and Religion. (see his Field of Ethics. 1901. p. 135–201) Bowdoin 170 P18 e

Published by Houghton, 213p. D, $1.10n.

Traces the affinities and divergences between ethics and religion. By itself ethics is imperfect and in order to become effective in life needs to be supplemented, in its finite field, by the infinite — religion.

Watson, John. Christianity and Idealism, the Christian ideal of life in its relations to the Greek and Jewish ideals and to modern philosophy. 216p. D. N.Y. 1897. Macmillan $1.25. (Univ. of Cal. Philosophical Union. Publications, v. 2)
Bowdoin 201 W33 e

Professor Watson's thesis in chapter 1 — and this may perhaps be regarded as the main contention of the entire work — is that morality and religion are indissolubly connected. J. E. Creighton in Philosophical Rev. Sep. 1898, 7:532

HISTORIES

Bigge, Lewis Amherst Selby, ed. British Moralists; being selections from writers principally of the 18th century. 2v. O. Ox. 1897. Oxford Univ. 18/. Harvard e

American price $4.50.

An introduction of 59 pages outlines the tendencies of British thought of the period.

Guyau, Marie Jean. La morale anglaise contemporaine: morale de l'utilité et d' evolution.–420p. O. Par. 1879. Baillière 7fr 25c. Harvard e

Almost unqualified praise may be given to M. Guyau's chapters of exposition. His account is lucid, pleasant to read and accurate; in fact I do not know where else, even in English, so full and trustworthy an account of English utilitarianism is to be found. In so large a subject there are naturally points on which the reader may dissent from his judgment. F. Pollock in Mind, Ap. 1880, 5:281

Jodl, Friedrich. Geschichte der Ethik in der Neueren Philosophie. 2v. in 1,O. Stuttgart 1882–89. Cotta 10m. Harvard e

An admirable work which gives the first connected account of the history of modern moral philosophy. Paulsen's System of Ethics (1899), p. 179

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. History of European Morals from Augustus to Charlemagne. 2v. O. N.Y. 1870. Appleton $6. Bowdoin 170.9 L49 e

Mr Lecky's History of European Rationalism is the work which has done more than any other for his immediate reputation and to perpetuate his fame; but hardly less significant was his History of European Morals from Augustus to Charlemagne, which appeared in 1869. Surely something of Mr Lecky's praise of Gibbon's diligence may be credited to his own account, when what he did in four years is compared with what Gibbon did in 24. In this book as in the Rationalism, he had a thesis to maintain. Here it was the intuitive character of morality, and it was maintained at great length, its discussion consuming more than one third of his first volume. John White Chadwick in Warner's Library of the World's Best Literature. 1897. 15:8931

Sidgwick, Henry. Outlines of the History of Ethics for English Readers. 276p. D. Lond. 1886. Macmillan 3/6. (Macmillan's Manuals for Students) Bowdoin 170.9 Si1 e

A revision and expansion of the author's article on "Ethics" in the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The unity of the work is expressed in the qualification of its contents as meant for English readers. It is addressed to a public which may be assumed to wish a knowledge of the larger outlines of speculation on the ideas of right and wrong, good and evil, but which at the same time will probably take faint interest in those moralists whose theories do not form an integral part of the current stock of ethical ideas. William Wallace in Mind, Oct. 1886, 11:570

Stephen, Leslie. History of English Thought in the 18th Century. Ed. 2. 2v. O. N.Y. 1881. Putnam $8. Bowdoin 192 St4 e

It is first of all, as the preface tells, a history of the Deistical movement; but for this it seemed necessary to describe the general theologic tendencies of the time, and, in order to set forth intelligibly the ideas which shaped those tendencies, it seemed desirable, again, to trace their origin in the philosophy of the time and to show their application in other departments of speculation. Mind, Jan. 1877, 2:130

Wedgwood, Julia. The Moral Ideal, a historic study. Ed. 2. 400p. O. Lond. 1889. Paul, T.T. & Co. 9/. Bowdoin e

A scholarly and comprehensive account of ancient ethical history, describing what the author calls the "history of human aspiration" in India, Persia, Greece, Rome and Alexandria. Rich in the literature as well as the philosophy of the period covered.

Wundt, Wilhelm. Facts of the Moral Life, tr. by J. H. Gulliver and E. B. Titchener. 339p. O. Lond. 1897. Sonnenschein 7/6. 170 W96 e

—— Ethical Systems, tr. by M. F. Washburn. 196p. O. Lond. 1897. Sonnenschein 6/. 170 W96 e

These two volumes contain translations of the first two parts of Wundt's System der Ethik as published in revised form in 1892; these two parts being the historical portion of the work, as distinguished from the constructive. S. H. Mellone in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Ap. 1898, 8:382

CHRISTIAN ETHICS

Dorner, Isaac August. System of Christian Ethics, ed. by A. Dorner; tr. by C. M. Mead & R. T. Cunningham. 616p. O. N.Y. 1887. Scribner $3 n. Bowdoin e

Published also by T. & T. Clark, 14/.

The characteristic of his ethical system is its comprehensiveness of view. The realization of man's ethical worth in personal and social life, under the Gospel and within the kingdom of Christ, goes out beyond narrow and one sided theories to the completeness of the moral life in all its relations. George Harris in Andover Rev. Dec. 1887, 8:650

Smyth, Newman. Christian Ethics. 498p. O. N.Y. 1892. Scribner $2.50. (Internat. Theol. Lib.) Bowdoin 171.1 Sm9 e

Published also by T. & T. Clark, 10/6.

An independent, thoughtful and competent book, popular in the best sense. Probably the best book available on the subject, but its style, though clear, is not free from a certain pretentiousness. Sonnenschein, Reader's Guide, p. 81

THEORIES

Early intuitionalism

Cooper, Anthony Ashley, 3d earl of Shaftesbury. Characteristics of Men, Manners, Opinions and Times, ed. by W. M. Hatch, with notes. v.1, O. Lond. 1869. Longmans 14/. o.p. 824.51 Jire

No more published.

The appearance of Shaftesbury's Characteristics marks a turning point in the history of English ethical thought. With the generation of moralists that followed, the consideration of abstract rational principles falls into the background, and its place is taken by introspective study of the human mind, observation of the play of the various impulses and sentiments. Shaftesbury is the first moralist who distinctly takes psychologic experience as the basis of ethics. Sidgwick, p. 186–87

Butler, Joseph. Works of Joseph Butler, sometime Lord Bishop of Durham; ed. by W: E. Gladstone. 2v. O. Ox. 1896. Clarendon Press 28/. Bowdoin 239 B972 e

Published also by Macmillan, $7 n.
v. 1 Analogy of Religion
v. 2 Sermons

The famous Analogy is an endeavor to show that, as the particular frame of man reveals a supreme conscience, so the frame of nature shows a moral governor revealed through conscience. He maintains that the facts of observation fall in with the belief that this life is a probationary state where men are, as a matter of fact, under a system of government which encourages virtue as such and discourages vice, and therefore imply the probability that in a future life there will be a complete satisfaction of the claims of justice. Stephen, 8:71

Smith, Adam. Theory of Moral Sentiments, with a biographical and critical memoir of the author by Dugald Stewart. New ed. 538p. D. Lond. 1887. Bell 3/6. (Bohn's Lib.) Bowdoin 170 Sm53 e

With Adam Smith the development of the earlier English ethics closes and at the same time culminates. The psychologic analysis of morals which Hume began, Smith completes with a command of the subject wonderful considering the state of psychology in his age; while at the same time he frees it from the heterogeneous elements of the intellectual ethics, which Hume had failed to master. Wundt, p. 82

Kant, Immanuel. Critique of Practical Reason, and other works on the theory of ethics; tr. by T: K. Abbott. Ed. 3 enl. 368p. por. O. Lond. 1883. Longmans 12/6. Bowdoin 171 e

The moral law is for Kant an a priori law valid prior to and independent of all empirical application. Starting from this standpoint he obtains his formula: "So act that the maxim of thy will might serve at the same time as a principle of universal legislation." Since this law is a priori, and hence independent of the special conditions of its empiric application, it is for Kant a categoric imperative, an unconditional command of duty, which can not be made to depend on any utilitarian or other considerations. Wundt, p. 114

Later intuitionalism

Price, Richard. Review of the Principal Questions and Difficulties in Morals. Ed.2. 462p.O. Lond. 1769. Cadell 7/. o.p. 171 P93 e

When we turn to the subject matter of virtue, we find that Price, in comparison with More or Clarke, is decidedly laxer in accepting and stating his ethical first principles; chiefly because he (like Reid and Stewart afterward) appeals to common sense rather than abstract reason as the judge of moral evidence. Sidgwick, p. 215

Reid, Thomas. Philosophical Works, ed. by Sir W. Hamilton. 2v. O. Lond. 1862. Longmans 30/. 192.5 J e

The truth is that the construction of a scientific method of ethics is a matter of no practical moment to Reid, since he holds that "in order to know what is right and what is wrong in conduct, we need only listen to the dictates of conscience when the mind is calm and unruffled." He does, however, expressly recognize that the conscience of an individual may err, and holds that in this case he is morally right in acting in accordance with his erroneous judgment. Sidgwick, p. 219

Stewart, Dugald. Philosophy of the Active and Moral Powers of Man; rev. by James Walker. Ed.10. 460p. D. Phil. 1868. Butler $1.88. o.p. Bowdoin 192.6 S e

His account of the moral faculty is, in style and treatment, decidedly superior to Reid's; it is not, indeed, penetrating or profound; but it is a lucid, comprehensive and judicious attempt to put together the elements of truth in the views of preceding writers, including Shaftesbury and Adam Smith, into a harmonious and coherent statement of the results of impartial reflection on the moral consciousness. Sidgwick, p. 221

Whewell, William. Elements of Morality including Polity. Ed. 3. 2v. D. Lond. 1854. Parker 15/. o.p. Bowdoin 170 W57 e

Now published by Bell, 15/.

Whewell's general moral view differs from that of his Scotch predecessors chiefly in a point where we may trace the influence of Kant—viz, in his rejection of self-love as an independent rational and governing principle, and his consequent refusal to admit happiness, apart from duty, as a reasonable end for the individual. Sidgwick, p.222-23

Calderwood, Henry. Handbook of Moral Philosophy. 277p. O. Lond. 1873. Macmillan 6/. 171.2 C12 e

Presents the chief problems in ethical thought and gives an outline of discussion under each, allowing fundamental questions greatest prominence. The book is at the same time critical and expository—critical of the utilitarian view and written in defense of the intuitional theory.

Martineau, James. Types of Ethical Theory. Ed.2. 2v.O. Ox. 1886. Clarendon Press 15/. Bowdoin 171 M36 e

Published also by Macmillan, $4.50.
v. 1 is historical.

Dr Martineau considers that moral intuition is primarily concerned not with outward acts but with the comparative excellence of conflicting motives. Sidgwick, p. 224.

While its logic is the severest, yet on every page it glows with ethical enthusiasm. It presents Dr Martineau's own ethical doctrine, but this in relation with many other doctrines, and all in one vast organism of thought. A. W. Jackson, James Martineau, a Biography and Study, p.108

Laurie, Simon Somerville, anon. Ethica; or, The Ethics of Reason, by Scotus Novanticus. 195p. O. Lond. 1885. Williams & Norgate 6/. Bowdoin e

The author refuses to accept any external result as the end and standard of action; self-realization, in a sense closely resembling the Aristotelian, is the answer he adopts to the question, What is the end of man—the good for man. Andrew Seth in Mind, Oct. 1885, 10:595

Porter, Noah. Elements of Moral Science, Theoretical and Practical. 574p. O. N.Y. 1885. Scribner $3.

The author agreeing with moralists in general in maintaining that obligation supposes an obligee, differs with most of them in contending that this obligee is the individual himself, so that if there were but one person in the universe, he would be subject to moral law imposed by his own nature. J. P. Gordy in Andover Rev. Feb. 1885, 3:190

Janet, Paul. Theory of Morals, tr. from the latest French ed. 490p. O. N.Y. 1884. Scribner $2.50. Bowdoin e

If it is desired to give any name to this doctrine—which is not unimportant for the sake of giving fixity to ideas—it might be called a sort of rational eudemonism, opposed on the one hand to utilitarian eudemonism, and on the other hand to the too abstract formalism of Kant's morality, yet at the same time reconciling the two. Preface, p. 8

Egoistic hedonism

Hobbes, Thomas. Elements of Law, Natural and Politic, ed. with a preface and critical notes by Ferdinand Tönnies, to which are subjoined selected extracts from unprinted mss of Thomas Hobbes. 226p. O. Lond. 1889. Simpkin 8/6. Bowdoin e

Substance of the present volume was formerly known in the shape of two separate treatises, Human Nature and De corpore politico.

For Hobbes, the natural moral law consists in a correct weighing of the beneficial or harmful consequences of an act. A breach of the law is therefore an error of the understanding merely; it can proceed only from false deduction, since nobody intentionally acts contrary to his own advantage. Wundt, p. 56

Mandeville, Bernard, anon. Fable of the Bees; or, Private Vices, Publick Benefits. Ed. 3. 2v. O. Lond. 1824. Tonson o.p. Bowdoin 301 M31 e

Quoted by Lowndes for 13/.

Mandeville gave great offense by this book, in which a cynical system of morality was made attractive by ingenious paradoxes. Assuming with the ascetics that human desires were essentially evil and therefore produced "private vices," and assuming with the common view that wealth was a "public benefit" he easily showed that all civilization implied the development of vicious propensities. Stephen, 36:21-22

Utilitarianism

Plato. Dialogues, tr. into English with analyses and introductions by Benjamin Jowett. Ed.3. 5v.O. N. Y.1892. Macmillan $20. Bowdoin 888.4 K e

English price £4 4/.

Plato's philosophy rests wholly and entirely on an ethical basis. Moreover, his theoretic view of the world is determined by ethical ideas and requirements. Taking his stand on the Socratic law that virtue is knowledge, he makes it his task to give the ethical concept of the good the central position in an all-embracing theory of the universe. Here, in the first instance, the question arises as to how the good itself is to be defined; a question which Socrates had not answered, since he was only concerned in pointing out the good in single instances. The earliest Platonic dialogues are occupied with this question, and the answers given to it vary within the limits of the national way of looking at things. Wundt, p. 10

Aristotle. The Nicomachean Ethics of Aristotle, tr. with an analysis and critical notes by J. E. C. Welldon. 352p. D. N.Y. 1897. Macmillan $2. Bowdoin 888.5 Q1w e

English price 7/6.

On the whole there is probably no treatise so masterly as Aristotle's Ethics (Nicomachean) and containing so much close and valid thought, that yet leaves on the reader's mind so strong an impression of dispersive and incomplete work. It is only by dwelling on these defects that we can understand the small amount of influence that his system exercised during the five centuries after his death, in which the schools sprung from Socrates were still predominant in Greco-Roman culture; as compared with the effect which it has had, directly or indirectly, in shaping the thought of modern Europe. Partly, no doubt, the limited influence of the "Peripatetics" (as Aristotle's disciples were called) is to be attributed to that exaltation of the purely speculative life which distinguished the Aristotelian ethics from other later systems, and which was too alien from the common moral consciousness to find much acceptance in an age in which the ethical aims of philosophy had again become paramount. Sidgwick, p. 69

Locke, John. Philosophical Works, ed. with a preliminary essay and notes by J. A. St John. 2v. por. D. Lond. 1894. Bell 7/. (Bohn's Lib.) Bowdoin 150 L791 e

In this conception of the moral motive as of the moral end, Locke returns in essentials to the views of Hobbes. For him the moral motive is self-love; the end of morality is the welfare of the whole, which is made up of the welfare of all individuals. Wundt, p. 65

Hume, David. Philosophical Works, ed. with introd. by Prof. T. H. Green and T. H. Grose. 4v. O. Lond. 1882. Longmans 56/. Bowdoin e

Hume's ethical view was finally stated in his Inquiry into the Principles of Morals (1751) which is at once more popular and more purely utilitarian than his earlier work. I think, however, that Hume's view as to the origin of justice can not easily be understood from the later treatise alone. In the treatise on Human Nature he agrees broadly with Hobbes as to the original connection of justice with self-interest, and holds, like Hobbes, that all its obligations are conditional on the existence of an established social order which it is the individual's interest to maintain. Sidgwick, p. 201

Paley, William. Principles of Moral and Political Philosophy. Ed. 15. 2v. O. Lond. 1804. Faulder o.p. Bowdoin 170 P17 e

He is an unrivaled expositor of plain arguments, though he neither showed nor claimed much originality. His morality is one of the best statements of the utilitarianism of the 18th century. Stephen, 43:105

Bentham, Jeremy. Introduction to the Principles of Morals and Legislation. 336p. O. Ox. 1876. Clarendon Press 6/6. 340.1 B44 e

It is on this work and not on the Deontology that an estimate of Bentham's views should be based. In the latter work, published after Bentham's death and composed of fragments which were found among his apers, it is impossible to discriminate what is due to his editor and what to himself. Wilson and Fowler, Principles of Morals, 1: 100

Mill, John Stuart. Utilitarianism. New ed. 149p. S. Bost. 1899. Small 50c. Bowdoin 171.5 e

The most unqualified subordination of private to general happiness was advocated by J. S. Mill, who has probably done more than any other member of the school to spread and popularize utilitarianism in both ethics and politics. Sidgwick, p. 234

Bain, Alexander. Mental and Moral Science, a compendium of psychology and ethics. 751p. D. Lond. 1868. Longmans 10/6. B. P. L. e

A view of the origin of moral sentiments, broadly similar to Mill's, is maintained by Mr Bain and by other writers of the same school. All agree in representing the conscience of any individual as naturally correlated to the interests of the community of which he is a member, and thus a natural ally in enforcing utilitarian rules, or even a valuable guide when utilitarian calculations are difficult and uncertain. Mr Sidgwick's book has the advantage of supplying not only the best statement of the modern utilitarian point of view, but also the best criticism of intuitionism. J: S. Mackenzie, Manual of Ethics, p. 440

Hodgson, Shadworth Hollway. Theory of Practice, an ethical inquiry in two books. 2v. O. Lond. 1870. Longmans 24/. Bowdoin 171 H66 e

The fundamental position is that every phenomenon has two elements—the formal element, which is time and space; the material element, which is feeling. Under feeling, action is included. Time and space having been treated in a former work, the present completes the subject by offering a logic of feeling and action. To this antithesis of the two inseparable elements of consciousness—namely feeling as the matter, and a cognitive framework or form—the author attributes a capital importance, and it reappears again and again in every fresh discussion. Saturday Rev. 15 Oct. 1870, 30:496

This book is " an attempt to exhibit a scientific conception of morality in a popular form and with a view to practical applications rather than the discussion of theoretic differences." The book appears to me in style and manner of the treatment excellently adapted for the purpose for which it is primarily intended. Sidgwick in Mind, Ap. 1885, 10:266

Gizycki, G. von. Student's Manual of Ethics, adapted from the German by Dr Stanton Coit. 304p. O. Lond. 1889. Sonnenschein 6/. Harvard e

It is an exposition and defense of utilitarianism, with such modifications and expansions of that doctrine as seem to the author to be necessary to its acceptance and influence. "Moral philosophy," he says, "is a science for everybody." Indeed, if it concerns one more than another, it must be the man of the world by whose acceptance or neglect every moral doctrine must at last become fruitful or futile. We have here a work on the first principles of moral philosophy; it is not an attempt to pursue the subject far into its ramifications, nor to apply it to casuistry. Mind, Ap. 1889, 14:278-79

Evolutionary ethics

Darwin, Charles. Descent of Man and Selection in Relation to Sex. 2v. O. N.Y. 1871. Appleton $3. Bowdoin 575 N1 e

Ch. 1-5 and 21.

The gist of his theory of evolution lies in the doctrine that qualities accidentally arising in the struggle for existence, which are useful to the species affected, are preserved and strengthened. Among the qualities thus developed by natural selection are the social instincts. Morality is, in a single word, the social instinct controlled by intelligence. Wundt, p. 153–55

In accordance with the principle of adaptation, he regards the moral as identical with the useful, and the latter as identical with that which is adapted to existing conditions of human life. Since these conditions are variable, moral ideas are in a state of constant flux; and there is no such thing as absolute laws, valid for all times. Wundt, p. 155

The author of this book was formerly an orthodox utilitarian of the school of Bentham and J. S. Mill. He has tried to work out a statement of the fundamental ethical principles as they appear to an evolutionist. The book covers in part the ground already occupied by Mr Herbert Spencer's Data of Ethics; but it is the result of an independent investigation and treats the problem from a different point of view. Mind, Ap. 1882, 7:317

A very full, interesting and original discussion. The general position of the author is that of one struck with the convergence of idealistic and naturalistic ethics in the light of evolutionism. Of all the more recent books on systematic ethics, I regard Professor Höffding's Ethik to be the best. Condensed as it is, it offers a completed whole, both in its treatment of philosophic principles and in its application of them. It is the work of a wise and good, a highly cultivated, and, in the best sense of the word, a modern mind. G. von Gizycki in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Oct. 1890, 1:123

Professor Wundt's doctrine is that morality is definable as the service of the general will, a will which, indeed, is nothing over and above the individuals which make up the race, for it consists of all those active tendencies which such individuals have in common. So far as its ethical interest is concerned, it reminds the reader most readily of Professor Bain; but the argument is greatly improved and brought up to date. v. 2 contains Ethique.

His metaphysics and epistemology are only preparatory and auxiliary to the ethical theory which is to crown the edifice of his system. Not only is a theory of ethics the end and aim of his work, but the ethical atmosphere which pervades it is the real source of his metaphysics. Next to the Platonic philosophy there is perhaps no system which bears such marked traces of having originated in ethical needs as does Spinoza's. Wundt, p. 92

In reality this system is a later growth of scholastic intellectualism in protestant soil. Cudworth, like Hobbes, regards man as a purely rational being. Human reason is an emanation from the divine reason; moral ideas are innate truths. He thus reclaims for religious commands their unconditional supremacy over civil law, and the individual conscience. Wundt, p. 60

Hegel places the source of morality not in the subjective but in the objective will, i. e. that impersonal power of the world-reason which is shared and actualized by individual wills. This general conception of morality revives in a broader spirit the fundamental thought of the Platonic politics, namely that the good can be obtained only in the state, and then not as the good of individuals but as a good which becomes objective in the political community itself. No work of the same value has appeared in the region of pure philosophy since the publication of the late Professor Green's Prolegomena to Ethics. The author has displayed extraordinary patience and industry in tracing every idea of Kant from its first imperfect presentation to its final form, and he has gone on to show the further development which it must receive if we are to have a consistent and adequate theory. In these two volumes the reader will find a complete statement of the whole of Kant's philosophy, and a masterly criticism of it from the point of view of absolute idealism. John Watson in Philosophical Rev. Jan. 1892, 1:10

Deliberate study of the book, whatever the standpoint of the reader, must result in high commendation of it, as a work of unquestionable ability and great philosophic value. Additional reason for interest is found in the fact that it was generally known that Green had devoted himself to the problem, how Hegelian thought is to be reconciled with the scientific claims of the age, and specially with the theory of the evolution of being. This book brought forth a searching criticism from J: H: Sidgwick (Mind, Oct. 1876, 1:545-49). It has, however, maintained a high place in the literature of idealism and is regarded as one of the best English interpretations of Hegelian thought.

His teleologic view of evolution (which is not to be confounded with the old "external" teleology) leads him to affirm as the end of man "self-realization." The transition from the point of view of science to that of morality, which has been found not to be possible empirically, is possible transcendentally through self-consciousness because "in self-consciousness we reach the element of identity between knowledge and action." The thought implied in this metaphysic of doubt is the positive form of the old negative saying that a thoroughgoing skepticism contradicts itself. A considerable part of this volume is devoted to the discussion of matters which are customarily treated under the head of applied ethics. The Hegelian conception, both of the individual and the universal, informs the whole exposition. Peace and war

Luther, Martin. Can Soldiers be Christians? (see Open Court, Sep. 1899, 13:525–45) Bowdoin 211 Op2 e

For a theoretic discussion from the religious point of view of the justification of warfare in general, the little pamphlet of Luther, Can Soldiers be Christians, is unsurpassed to this day. It has been admirably translated into English by Prof. W. H. Carruth. F. W. Holls in Ruemelin's Politics and the Moral Law, p. 124

FAMILY ETHICS

Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich. The Family. (see his Philosophy of Right. 1896. p.164–85)

Establishes the family on a monogamic foundation and shows that marriage is essentially an ethical relation, that provision for a common interest within the family takes on an ethical aspect and that the ethical or social dismemberment of the family must occur only when children have grown to be free personalities.

Mackenzie, John Stuart. The Family. (see his Introduction to Social Philosophy. 1890. p.315–19) Bowdoin 301 M19 e

Points out the danger of exclusive forms of association within the family and urges that the family life be considered as a preparation for a more complete form of union within the community.

Marriage and divorce

Clerical ethics

Liddon, Henry Parry, D.D. The Moral Groundwork of Clerical Training. (see his Clerical Life and Work. 1894. p.73-92) Bowdoin e

Published by Longmans, 377p. O. $2.

Sermon preached at the anniversary festival of Cuddleston College, June 10, 1873.

Takes issue with a school of thinkers who regard intellectual enterprise as the only requisite for religious teaching and adds to it the vital element of moral earnestness and enthusiasm.

Medical ethics

Mitchell, Silas Weir, M. D. Doctor and Patient. 177p. D. Phil. 1888. Lippincott $1.50.

Published also by Pentland, 6/.

Deals with the mutual relation of the physician and patient with a view to showing the physician's duty toward his patient. Reviewed in Nation, 5 Ap. 1888, 46:288

Legal ethics

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. Moral Compromise in the Law. (see his Map of Life. 1899. p.101-12) Bowdoin 170 L49 e

Published by Longmans, 328p. D, $2.

Deals with the moral position of an advocate and his relation to his client.

Business ethics

Smiles, Samuel. Men of Business. (see his Self-help. n.d. p.294-320) Bowdoin 374 Sm43 e

Enumerates with considerable fulness and illustration the qualities essential for success in the business world.

Speculation

Hubbard, George H. Ethics of Speculation. (see New Englander, Jan. 1889, 50:43-51) Bowdoin 051 N421 e

Shows how the business of the speculator grows out of a desire to be hastily rich, and that the only legitimate wealth is gained by some means of production. Classes speculation and gambling together.

Gambling

Mackenzie, W. Douglas. Ethics of Gambling. (see Contemporary Rev. Aug. 1891, 60:220-33) Bowdoin 052 C76 e

Maintains (1) that to deal with property on the principle of chance is immoral, (2) that to resign one's manhood on a mere chance is a dishonor to one's nature, and (3) that there is involved in the deed a relation to one's neighbor which is outside all thinkable moral relations.

Oliphant, James. Ethics of Gambling. (see Westminster Rev. May 1892, 137:518-27) Bowdoin 052 W52 e

Takes the view that there are certain advantages, such as accuracy in thought and statement, to be derived from gambling, but that all these are sought at a very serious risk.

Compact and promise

Janet, Paul. Promises and Contracts. (see his Elements of Morals. 1884. p.88-92) Columbia 170 J25 e

Examines the nature of a promise and states certain undeniable exceptions, and in like manner the conditions of contracts and the interpretation regarding obscure clauses.

Employers and employed

Gladden, Washington. Working People and their Employers. 241p.D N.Y. 1885. Funk $1. (Standard Lib. no. 132) Bowdoin 331 G45 e

Addresses to workingmen Chapter 8 on the "Duties of Employers" points out that the tendency is to separate capitalist and laborer and contends that the employer has an obligation toward his employees in substituting a personal for an impersonal relation.

Mallock, William Hurrell. Labour and the Popular Welfare. 357p. D. Lond. 1896. Black 3/6. Bowdoin 331 M29 e

Published also by Macmillan, 90c.

Written from the capitalist's standpoint. After showing the beneficial results that the industrial system has secured and is securing for labor, the author concludes that the attitude of the laborer toward his employer should be one of acquiescence and not of revolt.

ETHICS OF AMUSEMENT.

Moxom, Philip Stafford. Ethics of Amusements. (see his Aim of Life. 1894. p.230–50) Bowdoin e

Published by Little, 300p. D, $1.

Indicates the necessity for amusement as well as its subordination to higher ends in a well ordered life.

Theater

Gothe, Johann Wolfgang von. Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship and Travels. 1851. 1:74-81. Bowdoin 832.62 T5 e

Published by Houghton 2v. D, $3.

The theater has often been at variance with the pulpit; they ought not, I think, to quarrel; how much is it to be wished that in both the celebration of nature and of God were intrusted to none but men of noble minds. Book, 1:84-85

Novel reading

Helps, Sir Arthur, anon. Fiction. (see his Friends in Council. 1861. 1:89-101) Bowdoin 824.84 O e

Published by Lane, 4v. in 2, each $1.50 n.

Points out the merit of fiction in creating sympathy and shows the danger, to which the reader is always exposed, of adopting writers of low ideals.

SEXUAL ETHICS

Chastity

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole. History of European Morals. 1870. 2:298-303. Bowdoin 170.9 L49 e

States the rigorous social laws for violation of chastity and shows their justification in the religious feeling on the subject and in the general interests of society.

Celibacy

Thwing, Charles Franklin Mrs C. F. (Butler.) The Family and the Church, Catholic and Protestant. (see their The Family. 1887. p.73-90) Bowdoin 173 T42 e

Published by Lee, 213p. O, $2.
Shows historically the immoralities consequent on celibacy among the clergy and its evil effects on the family, and also how it strikes at marriage, which is the basis of the family as an institution.

SOCIAL ETHICS.

Eliot, Charles William. The Happy Life. (see his American Contributions to Civilization. 1897. p.243-73) Bowdoin 814.49 El4 e

Published by Century, 387p. O, $2.
Address delivered at the Woman's College of Baltimore, Nov. 7, 1895.
Happiness must be conscious, considerate and consistent with habits of observing, reading and reflecting. Book, p. 245

Hilty, Karl. Happiness, essays on the meaning of life; tr. by F. G. Peabody. 154p.D. N.Y. 1903. Macmillan $1.25 n. 170.4 H56 e

The philosophy of life which he teaches is wrought out of large experience, both of academic and political affairs, and that which draws readers to the author is his capacity to maintain in the midst of important duties of public service an unusual detachment of desire and interior quietness of mind. His short essays are the Meditations of Marcus Aurelius, told in the language of modern life; the Imitation of Christ, expressed with the academic reserve of a modern gentleman. F. G. Peabody, preface p.7

Spencer, Herbert. Ethics of Social Life. (see his Principles of Ethics. 1893. 2: 261-433) Bowdoin 171.7 Sp31 e

Published by Appleton, 2v. O, $4.
Includes "Negative Beneficence" and "Positive Beneficence."

Veracity

Paulsen, Friedrich. Veracity. (see his System of Ethics. 1899. p.664-712) Bowdoin 170 P281 e

An extended account of veracity, viewing it first on its negative side, expressed in the formula, "Thou shalt not lie," and then on its positive side, which is expressed by the formula, "Serve thy neighbor with the truth."

Dress

Hyde, William DeWitt, D.D. Dress. (see his Practical Ethics. 1892. p.19-24) Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Shows that it is a duty to be well dressed, with its attendant reward, respectability, and its attendant temptation, vanity.

Wealth and rank

Higginson, Thomas Wentworth. Concerning All of Us. 210p.S. N.Y. 1893. (Amer. Essayists Ser.) Harper $1. Bowdoin 814.49 H53 e

Comments on social life and customs.

Friendship

Bacon, Francis, viscount St Albans. Of Friendship. (see his Essays. 1879. p.143-53) Bowdoin 824.3 B131 e

Published by Little, 360p. S, $1; o. p.
If he have not a friend he may quit the stage. Book, p. 153

Philanthropy

Bosanquet, Bernard. Two Modern Philanthropists. (see his Essays and Addresses. 1891. p.1-23) Bowdoin 824.89 B65 e

Published by Sonnenschein, 199p. O, 2/6.
Short sketches of George Moore and Jean Leclaire, with some discussion of the nature of charity.

Mackenzie, John Stuart. Introduction to Social Philosophy. 1890. p.320-22. Bowdoin 301 M19 e

Discusses the relation of philanthropy to society and designates the most helpful kind of charity as that which enables the recipient, in turn, to help himself.

Social obligations

Hyde, William De Witt, D.D. Society. (see his Practical Ethics. 1892. p.167-78) Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Emphasis is laid on the duty of each person to take part in the common life of society and to have that regard for the interests of others which in a general way is expressed by cooperation and toward individuals issues in the form of politeness and courtesy.

TEMPERANCE

Calkins, Raymond. Substitutes for the Saloon, an investigation made for the Committee of Fifty. 397p.D. Bost. 1901. Houghton $1.30. Bowdoin e

A strictly practical inquiry undertaken in a scientific fashion and prosecuted with great care and thoroughness. It assumes that no attack on the saloon can hope for permanent effectiveness which does not take into account the contribution of the saloon to sociability.

Gustafson, Axel Carl Johan. The Foundation of Death, a study of the drink question. Ed.3. 598p.D. Bost. 1885. Ginn $2. Bowdoin 178.1 G971 e

Published also by Hodder, 5/.
An exhaustive study from the historical, medical, physiologic and moral standpoints.

Lee, F. R. Textbook of Temperance. 312p.D. Rockland Me. 1869. Vose $ 1.25. o.p. Bowdoin e

From the teetotal standpoint. Comprehensive.

Wheeler, Edward Jewett. Prohibition, the Principle, the Policy, the Party. Ed. 5. 277p.D. N.Y. 1894. Funk 75c. Bowdoin e

The best American summary of the case for prohibition. Sonnenschein's Reader's Guide, p. 200

Tobacco

Hyde, William De Witt, D.D. Practical Ethics. 1892. p.16-17. Bowdoin 170.2 H99 e

Published by Holt, 208p. D, 80c.
Points out the evil results of using tobacco in early life.

Opium

De Quincey, Thomas. Confessions of an English Opium Eater; with introd. note by William Sharp. 275p.D. Lond. 1886. Scott 1/. (Camelot Classics, Bowdoin 824.81 O1 e

The narrative, which is presented with all the grace and effectiveness of a man of letters, is addressed to the opium eater. De Quincey shows that after using opium with its attendant pains and discomforts for 17 years it may still be renounced.

Dudgeon, John, M.D. Evils of the Use of Opium. (see Shanghai Conference. Records. 1890. p.314-54)

A valuable essay. J. S. Dennis, Christian Missions and Social Progress, 1:350

OTHER ETHICAL TOPICS

Animals' rights

Evans, Edward Payson. Ethical Relations of Man to Beast. (see his Evolutional Ethics and Animal Psychology. 1898. p.82-104) Columbia 591.5 P7 e

Published by Appleton, 386p. D, $1.25.

Attacks the anthropocentric psychology and ethics, and argues for more humanity toward animals. The author presents a résumé of the best thought on the subject and strengthens his own position by the temperateness of his reasoning.

Salt, Henry Stephens. Animals' Rights considered in Relation to Social Progress, with a bibliographical appendix; also an essay on "Vivisection in America" by Albert Leffingwell. 176p. D. N. Y. 1894. Macmillan 75c. Columbia 179.3 Sa31 e

English price 2/.

This little book does not pretend to be a theoretic discussion of animal rights, but only a statement of practical reasons for modifying both our treatment of animals and our habits of using them for food. J. H. Hyslop in Internat. Jour. of Ethics, July 1895, 5:532

Character

Bryant, Mrs Sophie. Short Studies in Character. 247p. D. Lond. 1894. Sonnenschein 4/6. (Ethical Lib. no. 2) Bowdoin 170 B84 e

Published also by Macmillan, $1.10.

A plea for the use of ideas in the formation of character, and the use of character, in the sense of the conscience, in the formation of ideas. The first of these appears most explicitly in an earnest chapter on "The Intellectual Factor in Moral Education" but it is as emphatically urged elsewhere, specially in the quite pronounced section of "The Influence of Ideals." John MacCunn in the Internat. Jour. of Ethics, Jan. 1895, 5:251

Smiles, Samuel. Self-help, with illustrations of character, conduct and perseverance. 447p. D. N. Y. n.d. Harper $1. Bowdoin 374 Sm43 e

Its main value consists in an enforcement of the distinct principle that unless there be stimulus to exertion from within, help is of little use, and may in reality be enfeebling and hurtful. Chambers's Jour. 24 Dec. 1859, 32:413

Included in Sir John Lubbock's list of 100 books.

Cruelty to children

Waugh, Benjamin. Prevention of Cruelty to Children. (see Dublin Rev. Jan. 1892, 110:140-51) Bowdoin 052 D85 e

Written by the founder of the "National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children." Provides some account of what the society has accomplished and the need for further work.

Dueling

Janet, Paul. Elements of Morals. 1884. p.58-60. Columbia 170 J25 e

Published by Barnes 353p. D, $1.25.
Takes the view that the duel is not a legitimate mode of self-defense, and that ethically it is indefensible because it allows each to become his own judge.

Ethical science

Carus, Paul. The Ethical Problem, three lectures on ethics as a science. Ed.2. 351p.D. Chic. 1899. Open Court Pub. Co. 50c. (Religion of Science Lib. no. 35) Columbia e

The second edition contains the entire controversy that was called forth by the first edition. Points out the intimate connection of ethics with morality and shows also that ethics as a science can not be derived from mere sentiment.

Happiness

Hamerton, Philip Gilbert. The Quest of Happiness. 187p. D. Bost. 1897. Roberts $2. Harvard 171.4 H17 e

Now published by Little, $1.50.
The thought expressed is that all unhappiness is caused by the non-exercise of natural faculties.

Lubbock, Sir John, bart. Pleasures of Life. Ed. 3. 191p. D Lond. 1887. Macmillan 3/6. Bowdoin 824.89 L961p

The tone is serious; there is much from the old sources, the great moralists of the past; but one feels in it all that best of the reader's pleasures, continuous contact with a cultivated mind and a kindly nature. Nation, 1 Sep. 1887, 45:178

Pessimism

Hartmann, Eduard von. Philosophy of the Unconscious, speculative results according to the inductive method of physical science; authorized tr. by W. C. Coupland. 3v. O. N. Y.1884. Macmillan $7.50. Bowdoin 193.9 e

Published also by Paul, T.T. & Co. 31/6.
The essential results consist in positing an unconscious principle, which is the unifying principle of both matter and life, and which, therefore, in the latter becomes conscious, and finally self-conscious. The third volume goes on to show that consciousness is in the main a source of misery. Hartmann traces in a very suggestive way the illusive nature of happiness through the three stages where mankind hoped for happiness in this world, then in the next world and finally in the future of this world. Athenaeum, 14 June 1884, 1:753

Sully, James. Pessimism, a history and a criticism. 477p. O. Lond. 1877. King 14/. Harvard 149.6 Su5 e

The press

Kelly, Edmond. The Problem of Education. (see his Evolution and Effort. 1900. p.216-36) Bowdoin 301 K29 e

Published by Appleton, 293p. D, $1.25.
Points out the sensational and partizan nature of the contemporary press and shows that the problem of providing accurate news, free from scandal and partizanship, is mainly an ethical one.

Suicide

Morselli, Enrico Agostino. Suicide. 388p.illus.D. N.Y.1882. Appleton $1.75. (Internat. Sci. Ser.) 179.7 M83 e

Published also by Paul, T.T. & Co. 5/.
He briefly maintains that "Suicide is an effect of the struggle for existence and of human selection, which works according to the laws of evolution among civilized people," and in conclusion urges that the only way to cure the evil is to develop in man the power of well ordering sentiments and ideas by which to reach a certain end in life—in short, to give force and energy to the moral character. Mind, Jan. 1882, 7:151

Schopenhauer, Arthur. On Suicide. (see his Studies in Pessimism. 1891. p.43-50) Bowdoin e

Published by Sonnenschein, 142p. D, 2/6; Macmillan 90c.
Takes the view that there is "nothing in the world to which every man has a more unassailable title than his own life and person," and that suicide is not a crime but a mistake.

Sunday question

Gilfillan, Rev. James. The Sabbath viewed in the Light of Reason, Revelation and History, with sketches of its literature. 635p. D. N. Y. n.d. Amer. Tract Soc. $1.25. Bowdoin 263 G39 e

An extended discussion of the importance of the Sabbath as a sacred day and one worthy of increased respect both as a human and as a divine institution.

Tyndall, John. The Sabbath. (see his New Fragments. 1892. p.1-46) Bowdoin 504 P2 e

Published by Appleton 500p. O, $2.
Argues forcibly for a less rigorous observance of the Sabbath; an exhortation to put Sundays to better account, in the way of cultivating nature and art interests.

Vivisection

Cobbe, Francis Power. Mr Lowe and the Vivisection Act. (see Contemporary Rev. Feb. 1877, 29:335-47) Bowdoin 052 qC76 e

Maintains that, whatever the value of the scientific discovery which must be obtained by vivisection, it is morally forbidden.

Leffingwell, Albert. The Vivisection Question. 267p.O. New Haven 1901. Tuttle $1.25. Bowdoin e

Essays and speeches advocating the prevention of abuse of vivisection by legal regulation.

Paget, Sir James. Vivisection: its pains and its uses. (see Nineteenth Century, Dec 1881, 10:920-30) Bowdoin 052 N62 e

Argues that as few obstacles as possible should be thrown into the way of competent persons engaged in research, and contends also that vivisection does not inflict more pain than many sports which are generally encouraged.

Wilks, Samuel. Ethics of Vivisection. (see Contemporary Rev. May 1882, 41:812-18) Bowdoin 052 qC76 e

Claims that "the selection of the so called standard of 'morality,' or the 'rights of animals' by which to measure the permissibility of physiologic experimentation, is undeniably a prejudgment of the real point at issue," Book, p 818

A SELECTION FROM THE
BEST BOOKS OF 1904
WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

To the Librarian

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in the United States in 1904, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are marked: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 more marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. It is thought best to inform the smaller libraries about some books which would be of high practical value to them, though probably too expensive to be bought from the ordinary fund. Special circumstances may sometimes justify buying such a book at the sacrifice of several cheaper ones. Occasionally, too, some generous friend or local club expresses a wish to make the town library a substantial gift. If the librarian can make prompt and definite suggestions it is an advantage to the community and the satisfaction of the benefactor is materially increased. Decimal Classification numbers as used in the State Library are prefixed as a guide to libraries using this system. For convenience of libraries wishing to use them, Library of Congress printed catalogue card serial numbers are given in note type; also references to reviews.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey Libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process ofpublication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need.

Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries, and some of these books are not recommended for school use, it will also be of much service to schools. Almost all the list is available. Any book under the heading "Juvenile" may be bought for academic libraries. But there are some books of fiction found here which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers, yet have not enough positive value, either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase by the school.

A SELECTION FROM THE

BEST BOOKS OF 1905

WITH NOTES

PREFATORY NOTE

To the Librarian:

This is an annotated list of 250 books published in 1905, selected by the book board of the New York State Library and recommended to the public libraries of the State. To aid in choosing small collections of new books three classes are indicated: books marked a, of which there are 20, are suggested to libraries which must confine their additions within narrow limits; 30 others marked b are also proposed to libraries that can buy 50 books; and 50 marked c may be added to a and b to make up 100 books.

The remaining 150, including some reference books and a few more costly publications, are worthy careful consideration by libraries that can buy more than 100 books and by those wishing to enlarge resources in special subjects. Many of the unmarked works are of the highest merit. It is thought best to inform the smaller libraries about some books which would be of high practical value to them, though probably too expensive to be bought from the ordinary fund. The political history of England edited by Hunt and Poole, to be complete in 12v. at $28 n, the two handsome cyclopedic volumes entitled A study of the artist's way of working in the various handicrafts and arts of design, by Russell Sturgis, and Scott's Voyage of the Discovery are illustrations in this list. Special circumstances may sometimes justify buying such a work at the sacrifice of several cheaper ones. Occasionally, too, some generous friend or local club expresses a wish to make the town library a substantial gift. If the librarian can make prompt and definite suggestions it is an advantage to the community and the satisfaction of the benefactor is materially increased.

The following from the Journal of New Jersey Libraries, October 1903, applies equally to New York:

Look at books before buying them, if possible. Advertisements and reviews are both untrustworthy, especially where any library's special needs are to be considered.

Information about importing books, secondhand books, and even about new books which are under consideration, is always cheerfully given, when asked, by the larger libraries in the State.

Do not buy encyclopedias while in process of publication. They are aggravations until complete, and can always be bought more cheaply than they are at first offered a few months after publication. Read Eugene Field's story of the "Cyclopedy," and take warning. The same rule holds as to all subscription books. Avoid them. Shun books in parts. They cost more than they are worth to a library. They turn up in secondhand stores a few months after completion at low prices. Deluded purchasers find them white elephants and sell them. Finest Orations, Noblest Essays, Royal Flim Flams, Huge Anthologies, and the like all come to the secondhand man. Get them of him, if you must. In a small library they are generally almost useless. In subscription books, cases like this are not uncommon. Maspero wrote several large and learned volumes, in French, on Egypt and Chaldea. They were translated and published in three or four volumes in England, costing libraries in this country about $5 each. An American publisher reprints them in 12 small volumes with a few additional colored cuts, on heavier paper and in larger type and offers them through agents for $84—and libraries buy them!

Do not buy "sets" or complete editions of authors. Buy the volumes you need and as you need them. A complete set always includes several volumes you do not need. Specify the edition you wish of standard books when you can, unless you find a bookseller able and willing to select them wisely for you.

While this list has been prepared with special reference to smaller public libraries it will also be of much service to schools. Not all the books listed, however, are recommended for school use. There are some books in fiction which have not enough positive value either as literature or as a spur to historical study, to justify their purchase for a school, yet which serve a legitimate purpose in the public library by providing wholesome entertainment for a very different class of readers. Nor is such a book as The plum tree, a story of political graft conveying a stern lesson to mature minds, appropriate for boys and girls, whose training in political morality might better be carried on through more direct means. All under the heading "Juvenile" are recommended for those school libraries which undertake to provide wholesome entertainment as well as useful information.

CLASSIFIED LIST

The source of a critical note is indicated, if taken from a review, whether quoted exactly or slightly condensed. Additional references are given to the best reviews.

Decimal Classification numbers, as used in the State Library, and Library of Congress printed catalogue card serial numbers are added, in the left margin, for convenience of libraries using them.

Abbreviations: n is used for net and the sign / for shillings; e. g. 12/6 means 12s 6d.

Atlantic, 97:52; Bookman, 22:364; Nation, 81:447; Outlook, 81:404.

Whitham, G. I. Last of the White Coats: a story of Cavaliers and Roundheads. Lippincott $1.50

6-35260 Fortunes of two young kinsmen of opposing parties, just before and after the Restoration. A bright, charmingly human story, which will attract older boys and girls.

Acad. 60:1261.

b Wiggin, Mrs K. D. (Smith) (Mrs Riggs). Rose o' the River. Houghton $1.25

5-20445 A Maine love idyl. The fascination and power of the Saco river and the perilous work of the lumbermen furnish the background.

Acad. 69:1008; Bookman, 22:494; Spec. 95:570.

c Williamson, C. N. & A. M. The princess passes: a romance of a motor-car. Holt $1.50

5-5442 Tale of love, automobile travel and a walking tour in Swiss and French Alps. Following but not vitally connected with The lightning conductor.

Dial, 38:389; Nation, 80:379.

Wolfenstein, Martha. A renegade, and other tales. Jewish Pub. Soc. of Amer. $1.25

5-41638 Tales of the life of orthodox Jews in Europe and America. Full of local color, race peculiarities, quaintness and delicate humor

Nation, 82:182.

b Wright, M. O. At the sign of the Fox. Macmillan $1.50

5-20914 Combines satirical thrusts at the ostentatious life of the rich with a philosophy of simple, wholesome living and charming descriptions of nature.

Ath. 1905, 2:397; Bookman, 22:134; Spec. 95:434.

JUVENILE BOOKS

220 Worcester, W. L. On holy ground. Lippincott $3 n

4-35754 Bible stories from Old Testament and Gospels, each concluding with biblical text of story. Noteworthy for wealth and excellence of photographic illustrations of eastern life and topography. Critic, 46:565.

372.3 Brown, E. V. Stories of childhood and nature. Globe Sch. Bk Co. 40c

5-32657 Fifty-nine sketches, stories and poems about the life of out-of-doors, and of far-away lands, 17 being original and the rest quoted from excellent sources.

372.4 Baldwin, James. Fairy reader: adapted from Grimm and Andersen. (Eclectic readings) Amer. Bk Co. 35c

5-13176 The fox and the horse, The little fir tree, The ugly duckling, Thumbling, and other stories, in simple words for first reader grade. The preface, generally objectionable, becomes here an excellent Afterword to teachers.

372.4 Grover, E. O. The overall boys: a first reader. Rand 45c

5-3788 With colored drawings similar to her Sunbonnet babies, and those little folks reappear in this story. Unlike most primary readers, this consists of one long story, not numerous short ones.

394 Our holidays, their meaning and spirit: retold from St Nicholas. (Hist. stories) Century 65c n

5-34166 Sketches, stories and verses explaining or illustrating observances of Hallowe'en, Election, Thanksgiving, notable birthdays, Arbor day, etc. Useful, though falling short of expectations roused by title.

398.2 Krout, C. V. "Caroline Brown," pseud. Bold Robin and his forest rangers. Dutton $1.25

5-26925 Some of the adventures of Robinhood and his yeomen, related in quaint style and full of the spirit and atmosphere of forest life. Supplements Pyle's Merry adventures of Robin Hood.

398.2 c Pyle, Howard. Story of the champions of the Round Table. Scribner $2.50 n

5-33971 Contents: The story of Launcelot, The book of Sir Tristram, The book of Sir Percival.

398.2 c Tappan, E. M. The golden goose, and other fairy tales. Houghton $1

5-35790 Six Swedish stories, very like German folk tales in spirit and sometimes in incident. The drawings admirably illustrate the text.

590.3 c Champlin, J. D. Young folks' cyclopaedia of natural history. Holt $2.50

5-12786 Painstaking compilation, alphabetically arranged, giving short account of each animal, its habitat and Latin name. Many woodcuts, index.

641 b Crump, Lucy. Three little cooks. Longmans $1

Two little English children try real cooking on a toy stove, under the supervision of an experienced cook. Thirty receipts in tiny quantities are given at the end.

5-13303 Burrell's Little cook book for a little girl, Estes 75c, is made up of many clearly stated recipes for breakfast, luncheon and dinner dishes, the greater part reprinted from Good Housekeeping.

757 Moore, Mrs N. H. Children of other days: notable pictures of children of various countries and times, after paintings by great masters. Stokes $1.50

5-36126 Thirty-five good reproductions, each provided with a little biographic matter, too effortfully written down to the child's supposed capacity. Objectionably heavy paper has been used in order to improve effect of halftones.

782.2 c McSpadden, J. W. Stories from Wagner. Crowell 60c

5-32690 Told with excellent simplicity and clearness.

Directed primarily to the needs of young people, it is worth the attention of older ones. . . For the nonmusical, as legend and fairy tales, for the young music lover, who has still in anticipation the Wagner music drama, it is a capital little book. Nation, 81:407. Spec. 95:1041.

790 a Hall, A. N. The boy craftsman: practical and profitable ideas for a boy's leisure hours. Lothrop $2

5-26960 Instructions for indoor and outdoor work and recreation, with suggestions for earning money by small business enterprises. Includes directions for tools and workshop, printing, dark-rooms and circuses, for making doll houses and furniture, log cabins, canvas canoes, cork toys, miniature theaters, etc. Illustrated.

796 Bond, A. R. The Scientific American boy; or, The camp at Willow Clump Island. Munn $2

5-35782 Gives in story form directions which the average boy can follow, for constructing bridges, windmills, water-wheels, tents, camping equipments, snowshoes, sledges, ice-boats etc.

821.08 Blake, K. D. & Alexander, Georgia. Graded poetry readers. 7 no. no.1-6. Maynard 20c ea.

6-14536 Grades 1-6 in 5v. Admirably selected, graded and printed. Ranges wide, from Mother Goose to Shelley, New England Primer to William Blake, Edward Lear to Emerson, Phoebe Cary to Shakspere.

Nation, 81:318.

821.17 c Kelman, J. H. Stories from Chaucer. (Told to the children ser.) Dutton 50c

W6-92 The stories of Arviragus and Dorigen, Palamon and Arcite, the patient Griselda, and Constance, in simple prose which brings out much of the poetic and moral beauty and prepares the way happily for later acquaintance with the originals.

The volumes of this series are attractively printed, illustrated in color, and, though not of equal value, are all worthy of consideration.

821.31 Lang, Jeanie. Stories from the Faerie queen. (Told to the children ser.) Dutton 50c

W6-213 Una and the lion; St George and the dragon; Britomart and the magic mirror; The quest of Sir Guyon; Pastorella; Cambell and Triamond; Marinell, the Sea-nymph's son; Florimell and the Witch. For note on series, see Kelman's Stories from Chaucer.

822.33 c Macleod, Mary. Shakespeare story book; with introd. by Sidney Lee. Barnes $1.75

3-16387 Stories of 16 plays, with dialogue in words of dramas. Plots are clearly brought out. Excellent as preparation for the plays, or as a good story book. Reissue of English edition of 1902. Illustrated by Gordon Browne.

Lamb's Tales are perhaps best suited to youngest children; Miss Macleod's versions, to a group a little older; Alice Hoffman's admirable Stories from Shakespeare's plays for children, published separately, Dent 1/ n, Dutton 40c n, imply another step in development. These have the outward characteristics of the Temple Shakespeare, with illustrations added. The stories are simply retold, with plentiful extracts from the plays.

Nation, 81:489.

888.8 Rowbotham, F. J. Tales from Plutarch. Crowell 60c

5-26114 Stories of Theseus, Romulus, Fabius and Alcibiades, being developed rather than translated from Plutarch. In good form for the story-teller.

Acad. 67:550; Ath. 1904; 2:729; Nation, 81:449.

914.4 McManus, Blanche (Mrs M. F. Mansfield). Our little French cousin. (Little cousin ser.) Page 60c

5-20772 5-24184 Describes daily life and some happy journeys of little Germaine, daughter of a well-to-do farmer of Normandy. This volume and Our little English cousin (914.2) by same author, are among best of the series.

916 Carpenter, F. G. Africa. (Carpenter's geog. reader) Amer. Bk Co. 60c

5-29092 An imaginary journey from New York through all African countries. Describes physical features, natural resources, people, life and industries. Illustrated.

917.3 a Stone, G. L. & Fickett, Grace. Every day life in the colonies. Heath 40c

5-21801 Graphic stories of early customs, telling of the first New England Christmas, hornbooks, a Puritan sabbath, soap and candle making, a May day celebration, sundials, etc. Arranged for a school reader primarily but excellent for home use.

973 c Lane, Mrs M. A. L. & Hill, Mabel, comp. American history in literature. Ginn 50c

5-35413 Prose and poetry, mainly from standard American authors, on incidents in United States history. Short lists of selections and books for children and teachers appended to each period group.

973.7 b Civil War stories: retold from St Nicholas. (Hist. stories) Century 65c n

5-34175 Stories, many of them true, of the great struggle on land and sea, and the part taken in it by children. This series is specially valuable to libraries not having full set of St Nicholas.

JUVENILE BIOGRAPHY

920.07 Mowry, W. A. & B. S. American pioneers. (America's great men & their deeds) Silver 65c

5-18109 Sketches of Champlain, Penn, Father Marquette, Boone, Kenton, Crockett, Lovejoy, Jefferson, Lincoln, Mann, Armstrong, Mary Lyon, Dorothy Dix, J. B. Gough and others. Illustrated.

JUVENILE FICTION

Barbour, R. H. Four in camp: a story of summer adventures in the New Hampshire woods. Appleton $1.50

5-30269 Adventures in a boys' summer camp on a New Hampshire lake.

Eliot, Mrs H. R. M. Laura in the mountains: a sequel to "Laura's holidays." Lothrop 50c

5-17285 A simple, wholesome story, which would please little girls, of the happy month of an Oregon family in a mountain camp.

French, Allen. Reform of Shaun. Little $1

5-32530 Stories of two dogs who reform in manners and morals, after learning that their homes depend on their good behavior.

a Fuller, Anna. A bookful of girls. Putnam $1.50

5-9059 Short stories of six bright, helpful and enthusiastic girls.
Critic, 47:284.

Kingsley, Charles. The water babies; told to the children by Amy Steedman. (Told to the children ser.) Dutton 50c

While it would be a great pity not to give older children Kingsley's full text, this excellent abridgment with pleasing illustration in color will attract many who would not read the original.

Lucas, E. V. comp. Old fashioned tales. Stokes $1.50

6-35259 Nineteen charmingly printed and illustrated moral classics, including Miss Edgeworth's Purple jar, Thomas Day's Little Jack, Mary Lamb's Changeling, Peter Parley's Plot of gunpowder, etc.

Smith, Mrs M. P. (Wells). Boy captive in Canada. Little $1.25

5-32678 Relates the experience of the 10 year old son of Deerfield's minister, who lived for more than a year in captivity among the Indians in Vermont and Canada. Wilmington.
Follows The boy captive of old Deerfield.

Strang, Herbert. Kobo: a story of the Russo-Japanese War. Putnam $1.50

W6-226 Adventures on sea and land of a young English engineer and his Japanese friend Kobo. Excellent picture of Japanese life and character and of the early events of the war at Port Arthur and in Korea.
Ath. 1904, 2:656.

c Thompson, A. R. Shipwrecked in Greenland. Little $1.50

5-29105 Adventures of a party of boys off the Greenland and Labrador coasts, with information about natives, manners and customs, flora and fauna, icebergs, polar bears etc.
Nation, 81:407.

a White, E. O. An only child. Houghton $1

5-24194 Pleasant story of a lonely little girl, her friends and her cats.

READING LIST ON FLORENCE

PREFACE

Though this list represents a rather broad selection care has been taken to include nothing not valuable or that would disappoint the interested reader. Few periodical references have been given. To cite all articles in Poole's Index would needlessly add to the bulk of the list, since the Index, either complete or abridged, is in nearly every library. Therefore articles indexed there have been included only when similar material could not be found elsewhere.

Call numbers (i. e. class and book numbers) are given for all books examined in the New York State Library, even though the edition differs from that described in the list; but class number only is given for books in the traveling collection. When books have been examined in other libraries, the name of that library has been substituted for the call number. Books marked e have been personally examined, while e shows that the edition examined differs from that entered in the list. Volume and page numbers are separated by a colon; e. g. 12:95 means volume 12, page 95.

Unsigned notes are by the compiler; sources of other notes are given.

Arrangement under each subject is alphabetic by authors, except in Biography, where it is alphabetic by biographees.

Abbreviations not self-explanatory are as follows:

Adams Adams, C: K. Manual of Historical Literature
Sturgis Sturgis, Russell & Krehbiel, H: E. Annotated Bibliography of Fine Art

READING LIST

HISTORY

Renaissance

Burckhardt, Jacob. Civilization of the Renaissance in Italy; authorized translation by S. G. C. Middlemore. 559p. O. Lond. 1892. Sonnenschein 10/6 945.05 B89 e

Published also by Macmillan, $4.

Probably best comprehensive description in one volume of all sides of the renaissance. Book contains many valuable references to Florentine life, literature and art.

Grimm, Herman. Life of Michael Angelo. 1900 927.5 B88 e

See full entry and notes under Painting, p. 27.

Symonds, John Addington. Age of the Despots. 637p. O. N. Y. 1888. Holt $2 945.05 Sy6 e

The author's method is dignified and even severe, but his style is graceful and at times brilliant. Each chapter is a monograph, little dependent for its history on what precedes or follows. Adams, p. 244

One of the best books for a general view of the political, social and religious condition of Italy during the renaissance.

—— Short History of the Renaissance. 354p. por. O. N. Y. 1893. Scribner $3.75 945.05 Sy61 e

An abridgment, approved by the author, of Symonds' works on the renaissance, but giving essentials.

Florence

Duffy, Bella. Tuscan Republics; Florence, Siena, Pisa, and Lucca, with Genoa. 456p. illus. O. N. Y. 1892. Putnam $1.50 (Story of the Nations) 945.5 D87 e

Merits praise for care in compilation and readableness, but lacks the insight and power of historical perspective to suit it to popular use. Chiefly devoted to Florence.

Larned, Josephus Nelson. Florence. (see his History for Ready Reference. 1894. 2:1129 47) 903 qL32 e

Published by C. A. Nichols Co., Springfield, Mass. 6v. Q, $5 each.

A good short account, made up of selections from authoritative works.

Machiavelli, Niccolo. History of Florence; The Prince. N. Y. 1891. Macmillan $1 (Bohn's Lib.) 945.5 M13 e

Written at the command of the pope, who as head of the Medici family, was also ruler of Florence; but it treats of this house with fairness and impartiality. Though not a book of much research or accuracy, it is a work of genius and the most spirited and picturesque history of Italy. Adams, p. 255

The principles and maxims of government laid down in The Prince are the cause of the unsavory reputation attached to Machiavelli. Yet close study of it by modern scholars shows him not to be as black as generally painted.

Napier, Henry Edward. Florentine History, from the earliest authentic records to the accession of Ferdinand 3, grand duke of Tuscany. 6v. D. Lond. 1847. Moxon 54/ 945.5 N16 e

By no means a great book, but one that shows impartiality of judgment, rough energy of expression and honest independence of opinion. Adams, p. 257

Oliphant, Mrs Margaret Oliphant (Wilson). Makers of Florence; Dante, Giotto, Savonarola and their City. 422p. illus. D. N. Y. 1892. Macmillan $2.50 920.0455 O13 e

Weaves in much contemporary history and personal observation, accurate but not profound. It gives all the old traditions which have gathered about the names of famous artists and buildings. Style simple and straightforward. A standard work and good for a beginner in art who has never visited Florence.

Perrens, Francois Tommy. Histoire de Florence. 6v. O. Par. 1877–84. Hatchette 45fr Worcester e

Of the first importance. The author has long been recognized as one of the most learned and judicious students of the middle ages. His style is vivacious and interesting. The chapters on the institutions of Florence are specially worthy of commendation. Adams, p. 259

—— History of Florence from the Domination of the Medici to the Fall of the Republic, 1434–1531; tr. from the French by Hannah Lynch. v.1, 475p. O. Lond. 1892. Methuen 12/6 Worcester e

Complete in three volumes. See note under his Histoire de Florence. This continues the Histoire, which has not been translated.

Symonds, John Addington. Florence and the Medici. (see his Sketches and Studies in Southern Europe. 1880. 1:46–100) 914.5 Sy6 e

Published by Harper, 2v. sq. D, $4.

Also in the Fortnightly Review, Dec. 1, 1877, 28:827 and Jan. 1, 1878, 29:277; and in Living Age, Jan. 12, 1878, 136:67 and Ap. 6, 1878, 137:3.

The most satisfactory short account of the Florentine state, laying special emphasis on the period of greatest glory under the Medici. Scholarly, unusually clear, intensely interesting.

Trollope, Thomas Adolphus. Filippo Strozzi; a history of the last days of Italian liberty. 410p. por. O. Lond. 1860. Chapman 12/ Worcester e

Pictures the times more interestingly for general readers than a formal history could.

—— History of the Commonwealth of Florence, from the earliest independence of the commune to the fall of the republic in 1531. 4v. O. Lond. 1865. Chapman 60/ Worcester e

Published also by Macmillan, $12.

The most satisfactory history of Florence written in English, though in some respects much inferior to the work of Perrens and Reumont. It is correct, but somewhat dull, and its most obvious fault is lack of historical perspective. Adams, p. 259

Yriarte, Charles Emile. Florence: its history, the Medici, the Humanists, letters, arts; rev. by M. H. Lansdale. 476p. illus. O. Phil. 1897. Coates $3 Worcester e

Contents: History; The Medici; The renaissance; Illustrious Florentines; Etruscan art; Christian art; Architecture; Sculpture; Painting

Deals but little with general principles of intellectual and artistic movements of the time, consisting chiefly of able biographic sketches of the great Florentines, with some account of their most important works. Comparatively little space is devoted to painters, sculptors and writers. Illustrations are numerous and mostly well executed. There is also a large folio edition with excellent plates.

Biography

General

Symonds, John Addington. Florentine Historians. (see his Age of the Despots. 1888. p.246–333) 945.05 Sy6 e

Cellini

Cellini, Benvenuto. Life of Cellini; newly tr. into English by J: A. Symonds. Ed. 4. 2v. illus. D. N. Y. 1896. Scribner $2.50 927.3 C33 e

Now issued in 1v. $2.

This celebrated book is not valuable as a guide to the immediate intelligent knowledge of fine art, but gives a truthful picture of times of violence and individual independence of law and authority, in which times the great art of the 15th and 16th centuries came into being. Sturgis, p. 3

Cosimo de' Medici

Ewart, K. Dorothea. Cosimo de' Medici. 240p. D. N. Y. 1899. Macmillan 75c (Foreign Statesmen Ser.) 923.245 M46 e

A scholarly, carefully written monograph, showing the better side of Cosimo's character. Specially good for its clear tracing of his foreign policy and the pains taken in portraying the man.

Galileo

Fahie, J. J. Galileo, his life and work. 451p. illus. O. N. Y. 1903. Pott $5 925.2 G134 e

Story of the almost superhuman struggles of a great genius who, amid severe trials, domestic, physical and religious, made a multitude of epoch-making discoveries, any one of which would nowadays command the instant admiration and applause of the world. Such a genius was Galileo, a satisfactory biography of whom, in the English tongue, has now first appeared. Dial, 35:307

Galilei, Galileo. Private Life of Galileo, comp. principally from his correspondence and that of his eldest daughter, sister Maria Celeste, nun in the Franciscan convent of S. Matthew in Arcetri. 307p. por. D. Lond. 1870. Macmillan 7/6 925.2 G13 e

Published also by Macmillan, $1.50.

Very interesting for general readers. Presents Galileo in the most favorable light. Incidentally pictures convent life in the 17th century.

Guicciardini

Owen, John. Guicciardini. (see his Skeptics of the Italian Renaissance. 1893. p.179–84) 190 Ow2 e

A man of free thought, wonderful breadth of view and admirably balanced judgment; the historian of the renaissance.

Lorenzo de' Medici

Armstrong, Edward. Lorenzo de' Medici and Florence in the Fifteenth Century. 449p. illus. map, O. N. Y. 1896. Putnam $1.50 (Heroes of the Nations Ser.) 923.1455 M4a e

A careful, thorough and interesting piece of biographic work, written in a graphic and delightful style, and condensing into one volume whole libraries of charges, explanations, refutations and accusations. Literary World, May 16, 1896, 27:150

Carpenter, Edith. Lorenzo de' Medici; an historical portrait. 216p. D. N. Y. 1893. Putnam $1 923.1455 M4c e

An admirable short study, discriminating between the overzealous admiration of Roscoe and the undue severity of Reumont. The author pictures Lorenzo as the typical figure of that many-sided and brilliant age. Literary World, Oct. 21, 1893, 24:353

Reumont, Alfred von. Lorenzo de' Medici, the Magnificent; tr. from the German by Robert Harrison. 2v. O. Lond. 1876. Smith, Elder 30/ 923.1455 e

Not so much a biography of Lorenzo as a history of Italy at the time when Lorenzo was its most important figure. The most striking merits of the work are its industry, accuracy and rigid impartiality. Adams, p.259

Roscoe, William. Life of Lorenzo de' Medici, called the Magnificent. Ed. 8, rev. by his son, Thomas Roscoe. 564p. D. Lond. 1846. Bohn 3/6 (Bohn's Illus. Lib.) 923.1455 M4 e

Published also by Macmillan, $1 n.

Highly entertaining in style, but inaccurate and unreliable. Some mistakes have been corrected in the later editions. Adams, p.259

Macaulay, Thomas Babington. Machiavelli. (see his Essays and Lays of Ancient Rome. 1896. p.28–51) 824.83 L1l2 e

Published by Longmans, 898p. D, 3/6.

Gives a sketch of the times which he thinks necessary for the understanding of Machiavelli's character, defends him against various charges, and reviews his writings at some length. Style vivid and scholarly.

Morley, John. Machiavelli; the Romanes lecture delivered in the Sheldonian theatre, June 2, 1897. 63p. O. N. Y. 1897. Macmillan 50c n 923.245 M131 e

Superior in grace and moderation to Macaulay's admirable study, and besides being the latest is much the best word said about Machiavelli and his survival. Graceful and scholarly. Critic, Oct. 2, 1897, 31:185

Owen, John. Machiavelli. (see his Skeptics of the Italian Renaissance. 1893. p.160–78) 190 Ow2 e

The statesman of the renaissance who best illustrates the effect of its religious, philosophic and humanistic influences.

Symonds, John Addington. The "Prince" of Machiavelli. (see his Age of the Despots. 1888. p.334–70) 945.05 Sy6 e

Villari, Pasquale. Life and Times of Niccolo Machiavelli; tr. by Madame Linda Villari. Ed. 3. 2v. O. Lond. 1892. Unwin 32/ 923.245 e

Revised ed. 1v. 7/6. Published also by Scribner, $10; Popular ed. $2.50.

The most satisfactory work. The theory of the author is that an adequate explanation of Machiavelli's character can only be found in a study of the man and his times as revealed specially in his unpublished writings. To this task he has applied himself with unusual assiduity and success. Adams, p.247

New ed. 1v. 7/6. Published also by Scribner, $6; Popular ed. $2.50.

This work is based on much original research and on new documents of great importance. It may be considered the only one which does full justice to the life and public services of Savonarola. The work of an eminent scholar who has made a special study of the period of the renaissance. Adams, p. 248

Scaife, Walter Bell. Florentine Life during the Renaissance. 248p. O. Baltimore 1893. Johns Hopkins Press $1.50 (Johns Hopkins University Studies in Historical and Political Science) 945.5 Sca3 e

Scholarly and fascinating. Discusses in condensed diction all phases of Florentine life, and compresses into 250 pages enough material for three volumes; yet the style is by no means dry. Its broad scope and accurate detail make it permanently valuable. Critic, Dec. 23, 1893, 23:411

[Florentine Guilds] p.152–60

Describes each gild separately.

Valuable and brilliant essays, to be prized not only for their learned analysis and accurate reconstruction, but also because they are marred neither by political rancor nor religious prejudice, nor by pride. Like Hallam's work, they are marked by sober patriotism and judicial eloquence of statement. The author's aim has been to elucidate the beginnings of the Florentine constitution. Period 1113–1313. Academy, July 6, 1895, 48:3

—— Sacred and Legendary Art; ed. with additional notes by Estelle M. Hurll. 2v. illus. O. Bost. 1894. Houghton $2.50 or $6 755 J233 e

These works are excellent for reference in the matter of recognizing a sacred personage by attributes as given in a picture, and as to the proper way of representing each personage. The historical part, the record of the growth in the legends and the changes in them, is very imperfect, but no better book is readily accessible. The author had no great knowledge of art and her criticisms are of little value. Sturgis, p.26

Pater, Walter. The Renaissance; studies in art and poetry. 252p. D. Lond. 1890. Macmillan 10/6 824.89 e

Published also by Macmillan, New York, $2 n.

Chapters on Pico della Mirandola, Sandro Botticelli, Luca della Robbia, Poetry of Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci.

It would be hard to find art criticism more just and illuminating than Pater's, or presented in more attractive form.

Ruskin, John. Mornings in Florence; ed. with introduction, notes and illustrations from the old masters of painting and sculpture, by Margaret Baker. 244p. illus. D. N. Y. 1902. Abbey Press $2 701 R894 e

Not a good guide for beginners in the study of art; indeed, the untrained student in ancient art is misled when any attempt is made to visit and study paintings with this book in hand. After one has become familiar with the pictures it may be useful in suggesting an ideal of art which is certainly not the artist's view, but may still be defended by those who seek in pictures something which is not their pictorial quality. Sturgis, p.34

After all, the book accomplishes the main purpose of making the reader love art. Ruskin's enthusiasm is catching.

Scott, Leader, pseud. Renaissance of Art in Italy. New ed. 384p. illus. Q. Lond. 1888. Chapman 18/ 709.45 qB33 e

A practical and homely view of the renaissance treated compactly and materially, with the aim of being useful to a large class of readers in tracing the many ramifications of art from their common parent stock and in bringing to a focus the different elements composing that complex movement which we call the Renaissance. Not a history, but a pictorial guide. Preface

Stillman, William James & Cole, Timothy. Old Italian Masters, engraved by Cole; with historical notes by Stillman. 282p. illus. Q. N. Y. 1892. Century $10 927.5 qSt e

The woodcuts are unique in two ways; they are among the very highest achievements of wood engraving; they render the original with a sympathy and an essential truthfulness hardly ever reached in reproduction of any sort. Mr Stillman's notes are the work of a man familiar with Italian painting; they were prepared with care and with a knowledge of the best and most recent authorities. Sturgis, p.19

Symonds, John Addington. Renaissance in Italy; the Fine Arts. 534p. O. N. Y. 1888. Holt $2 709.45 Sy6 e

This remains the best history in English of the artistic renaissance in Italy; its value is increased for the general student by the treatment of fine art as one of the many manifestations of the renaissance. Sturgis, p.13

Full of valuable references to Florentine artists.

Van Dyke, John Charles. Art for Art's Sake; seven university lectures on the technical beauties of painting. Ed. 10. 249p. illus. D. N. Y. 1898. Scribner $1.50 750 e

Of much value, because it explains in very simple language and in detail how a painter conceives a picture and goes to work at it, and how he looks at the pictures which he and other artists have produced. Should be read with care as if a textbook of the painter's trade. Sturgis, p.36

New Library ed. O, Scribner, $8.

These biographies are the groundwork of our knowledge of the great Italian artists of the 15th and 16th centuries. They are extremely interesting, full of anecdote and picturesque narrative, and give brilliant pictures of Italy during the epoch. In this edition many of the author's erroneous statements have been corrected and it forms one of the most important art contributions in many years. The criticism is of a high quality, and many difficult historical and biographic points have been elucidated. Sturgis, p.14

PAINTING

Books

Ady, Mrs Julia (Cartwright). Painters of Florence from the Thirteenth to the Sixteenth Century. 373p. illus. D. N. Y. 1901. Dutton $2.50 Worcester e

Published also by Murray, 6/n.
A workmanlike little book which may be safely recommended to students and beginners who wish for a concise account of the Florentine painters from Giotto to Buonarrotti with what is definitely known of their lives and some appreciation of their special achievement and their position in the history of art. Sixteen well executed halftones. Nation, May 9, 1901, 72:378

Berenson, Bernhard. Central Italian Painters of the Renaissance. Ed. 2. 205p. 1 illus. D. N. Y. 1899. Putnam $1

759.5 B452 e

Shows ingenuity, subtlety of reasoning and wide range of knowledge. Mr Berenson's main contention is that the painters of central Italy from Duccio to Raphael were, above all, illustrators, and drew or colored only as well as was absolutely necessary to their ends, or as well as taught by outside influences. Nation, Dec. 9, 1897, 65:462

Contains an index to the works of the principal Italian painters and mentions the place where each can be found.

—— Florentines Painters of the Renaissance; with an index to their works. 141p. 1 illus. D. N. Y. 1896. Putnam $1

759.5 B451 e

Mr Berenson's works on art have made a remarkable impression on thinking people. This one contains a classified list of Florentine painters, the place where each picture can be found being mentioned. The text itself is not at all of the nature of a catalogue. It is a sympathetic examination into the history and true nature of Florentine painting. Sturgis, p.17

The brief descriptions of the artists are unexcelled and worth reading by one who never expects to see Italy. It has been used for years as a guidebook of the higher class by studious travelers in Italy.

Clement, Charles. Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci and Raphael; with a preliminary chapter on art in Italy before the sixteenth century; tr. by Louisa Corkran. 374p. illus. O. Lond. 1880. Seeley 10/6 927.5 B886 e

Remarkable not only for the beautiful spirit in which it is written, but for the justice with which the three characters are compared and analyzed. The literary style is sparkling, even florid, and yet the big-sounding sentences are usually sustained by solid thought. Saturday Review, Feb. 14, 1880, 49:226

Crowe, Joseph Archer & Cavalcaselle, G. B. History of Painting in Italy from the Second to the Fourteenth Century. 3v. illus. O. Lond. 1864. Murray 63/ o.p. Worcester e

An invaluable work of reference for all painters of central Italy, the painters of northern Italy being treated in their History of Painting in North Italy. The Florentine school as the most important receives the largest consideration. Scholarly, based on extensive research and inspection of many paintings.

Harwood, Edith. Notable pictures in Florence. 312p. illus. D. N. Y. 1905. Dutton $1.50 n 708.5 e

Brief descriptions of the principal pictures in the Accademia delle Belle Arti, the Uffizi and the Pitti, also of the principal frescos in the churches. Short accounts of the 89 artists represented precede the descriptions of their paintings. The illustrations are small reproductions of paintings.

Jameson, Mrs Anna Brownell (Murphy). Memoirs of the Early Italian Painters; thoroughly rev. and in part rewritten by E. M. Hurll; with 62 portraits. 281p. illus. D. Bost. 1896. Houghton $3 927.5 J23 e

Originally of little value. The changes made in this new edition are improvements in general; the book is one of a number which serve a certain purpose in relating the better known facts about a famous body of men. Sturgis, p.26

Karoly, Karl, pseud. Guide to the Paintings of Florence, being a complete historical and critical account of all the pictures and frescoes in Florence, with quotations from the best authorities; short notices of the legends and stories connected with them or their subjects; and lives of the saints and chief personages represented. 344p. S. N. Y. 1895. Macmillan $1.50 708.5 K18 e

Its obvious fault is the use of criticisms by writers taking absolutely contrary views of art, and by some writers who have given no attention to art at all, so that the comparative criticism obtained is not valuable. Historically and as a work of reference the book is of great worth and complete in its scope. Sturgis, p.26

Perkins, Charles Callahan. Raphael and Michael Angelo: a critical and biographical essay. 294p. illus. O. Bost. 1878. Osgood (now Houghton) $5 927.5 R125 e

A valuable estimate of the work of these two great artists by a competent authority, though some statements must be revised in the light of recent discoveries.

Rose, George B. Renaissance Masters, the Art of Raphael, Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Titian, Correggio and Botticelli. 189p. D. N. Y. 1898. Putnam $1 759.5 R72 e

The purpose is to give in brief compass the essential characteristics of these great masters of painting. Though necessarily slight in treatment, the chapters are full of delicate perception and acute criticism. Literary World, Dec. 24, 1898, 29:451

Biography

Angelico

Douglas, Langton. Fra Angelico. 206p. illus. O. Lond. 1900. Bell 12/6 n Worcester e

Published also by Macmillan, $5.

An attempt to reconstruct the artist's personality by an examination of his paintings in chronologic order. Mr Douglas believes him to be a true child of the renaissance, imbued with a lofty and pure spirit, but not the kind of over-good man that he is commonly pictured owing to Vasari's interpretation. In general the book is marked by clearness, acuteness and sympathy; admirable in marshaling of evidence, cogency of reasoning and fulness of illustration, and careful and convincing in the study of the paintings.

Published also by Scribner, 1901, $1.25.

In reality a popular account of the artists of the early period of the Italian renaissance. Gives the results of the latest investigation and is reliable in statement of fact.

Quite satisfactory and comprehensive for so brief a treatment, containing not only a life of the painter, but a study of his style, chronologic table of the most important events in his history, list of works, bibliography and illustrations reproducing his most famous canvasses.

Bartolommeo and others

Published also by Scribner, $1.25.
A sympathetic and careful biographic study, in which is pointed out the relations of these two painters to other contemporary artists, specially Albertinelli. The whole forms two interesting and valuable chapters on the renaissance, one dealing with the later years of the 15th century and the other with the earlier years of the 16th. Sturgis, p.34

Botticelli

Ady, Mrs Julia (Cartwright). Life and Art of Sandro Botticelli. 205p. illus. F. N. Y. 1904. Dutton $4 n 927.5 qB653

The briefer biography of which this is an enlargement was published in 1903, 206p. illus. S, Dutton 75c n.
An account of the painter and the man, his relations with the Medici and the Florentine humanists on the one hand and of his connection with Savonarola and the Piagnone revival on the other. Follows the course of his artistic training and development and describes the works which may be attributed to him with certainty. Preface

Plunkett, C. N. count. Sandro Botticelli. 121p. illus. Q. Lond. 1900. Bell 42/n 927.5 qB651 e

Published also by Macmillan, $12.50.
The works of Botticelli and his school have never been so well and fully illustrated as in this sumptuous volume. Unfortunately the letter press which accompanies the plates is distinctly inferior in quality. Count Plunkett writes with enthusiasm and evident love of his subject, but he apparently lacks both the knowledge and the critical insight necessary for a work of this description. Literature, Nov. 3, 1900, 7:345

Steinman, Ernst. Botticelli; tr. by Campbell Dodgson. 112p. illus. Q. N. Y. 1901. Lemcke $1.50 (Monographs on Artists) 927.5 qB652 e

The author shows sound knowledge, which makes his statements explicit, and sympathy. He fails only when he tries to interpret Botticelli's art as a whole. The man is kept in the foreground and the paintings are discussed chiefly as an index to his character. Very fully illustrated.

As a whole this 20th volume of the Great Masters Series is truly a model for a work of this class—a combination of a biographic sketch and critical guidebook based on independent and scholarly investigation. Dial, Ap. 16, 1901, 32:278

Mr Perkins takes little space for anecdote or tradition, but treats his subject directly and impartially.

Chiefly a compilation, representing little original research and rejecting the scientific method of some of the modern critics. It must be said, however, that his material is well put together and the painter's work handled with discrimination.

Orcagna and Fra Angelico.

The result of learning, knowledge of art, extensive travel, and an ardent feeling, more akin to love or devotion than to enthusiasm. The general subject Lord Lindsay touches upon is the principles of art and the artistic nature of man. In his estimates of individuals he is informing, just and characteristic, but inclined to be hazy. Spectator, Jan. 2, 1847, 20:14

Perugino

Williamson, George Charles. Pietro Vannucci, called Perugino. illus. O. Lond. 1900. Bell 5/n (Great Masters in Painting and Sculpture) 927.5 e

A satisfactory treatment within its limits. The author is of the school of Morelli, a diligent student of technic, and much occupied with periods and questions of authenticity. This sort of scientific study is valuable, but he who desires to come at a final summing up of the esthetic value of Perugino's work will not find Dr Williamson's work quite so discriminating or helpful as he could wish. Academy, Nov. 17, 1900, 59:465

Raphael

Ady, Mrs Julia (Cartwright). Raphael. 80+80p. illus .Q. N. Y. 1895. Macmillan $3.50 927.5 qR122 e

Made up of the Portfolio monographs for January and August 1895; contains a brief record of Raphael's career, in which the attribution of paintings to himself and to others is based upon the best authorities; the general estimate is just. The needed illustrated work upon Raphael has not yet appeared; in the meantime the illustrations in this book and in Karoly's Madonnas, taken with the text of this volume, serve a temporary purpose.

Published also by Scribner, $12.60 n.

Very voluminous and containing the result of much labor and a large, personal and immediate knowledge of the paintings themselves. Valuable as an analysis of Raphael's art and as an account of the art of his time. A most interesting piece of work, at once a romance and a bit of history.

The author is not at all original, nor even very sensitive, but his account of Raphael's life and work is just what is wanted as an introduction to more special study. Has a wealth of illustration, is a good summary of facts and is not expensive. Saturday Review, Ap. 22, 1899, 87:502

More than usually good. The "real estimate" is here so high that even great enthusiasm could not go far wrong; but Mr Strachey is no blind enthusiast. His criticism is sound and sensible and his analysis of the talent of Raphael is excellent. Common sense is predominant also in the treatment of the biographic part of the volume. Nation, Feb. 1, 1900, 70: 93

McCurdy, Edward. Leonardo da Vinci. 139p. illus. D. Lond. 1904. Bell (Great Masters in Painting and Sculpture)

Published also by Macmillan, $1.75.

He has brought to the study a judicial and impartial mind and real intelligence. He begins by an account of the painter's life, in which he relates virtually everything of importance that is known. Wherever he introduces hypotheses to explain the documents or fill up the gaps in our knowledge he does so with becoming caution and modesty. In treating of the pictures the same cautious deliberation is apparent. Athenaeum, Oct. 8, 1904, 2:488

Muentz, Eugene. Leonardo da Vinci, Artist, Thinker and Man of Science. 2v. illus. Q. N. Y. 1898. Scribner $15 n 927.5 qV741 e

The author writes out of the resources of great learning, a patient laboriousness, a wise judgment, and the fine volumes are enriched with a wealth of illustration. It were impossible from the point of view of artist, critic or historian, to demand a more complete and worthy setting forth of the magnificent and multiform Leonardo. Academy, Feb. 4, 1899, 56:149

Richter, Jean Paul. Leonardo. 136p. illus. D. Lond. 1884. Low 2/6 (Illus. Biog. of the Great Artists) 927.5 V741 e

Published also by Scribner, 1894, $1.25.

Intelligent account of the life and what little is known of the work of a wholly exceptional genius. It is impossible to study Leonardo too closely, because unfortunate traits of the man have destroyed nearly all his important works of art; because, moreover, as a painter, Leonardo is one of the most faulty of masters, while also one of the greatest. Sturgis, p.33

SCULPTURE AND ARCHITECTURE

Works relating to Michael Angelo and others who were painters as well as sculptors are to be found under Painting, p.21.

Books

Freeman, Lucy Jane. Italian Sculpture of the Renaissance. 212p. illus. O. N. Y. 1901. Macmillan $3 n Worcester e

The author's attitude is irreproachable; she studiously avoids history and archeology, except in so far as necessary to her aim, which is the purely esthetic enjoyment of Italian sculpture. Style clear, straightforward and unaffected.

Partridge, William Ordway. Technique of Sculpture. 118p. illus. sq.D. Bost. 1895. Ginn $1 731 e

Its chief object is to offer a practical as well as a theoretic knowledge of sculpture, and after reading it one should be able to judge sculpture more intelligently. Includes a brief account of the history of sculpture.

Perkins, Charles Callahan. Tuscan Sculptors; their lives, works and times. 2v. illus. D. Lond. 1864. Longmans 63/ 734 qP41 e

Published also by Little, Boston, $22.50.

Liberally and well illustrated by etchings and woodcuts. These assist in giving a not incorrect, though necessarily imperfect notion of the sculptors. Besides this, the book professes to describe also their times, but this part has not been satisfactorily done. The object, indeed, is beyond the scope of such a work as Mr Perkins', and the imperfect attempt to do this gives the book an air of incompleteness, which had been complete enough without. Spectator, Feb. 18, 1865, 38:185

A convenient handbook, giving an outline of the work of the early Italian sculptors. Necessarily omits much critical and descriptive matter, but trustworthy as to historical facts.

Burlamacchi, L. marchesa. Luca della Robbia. 126p. illus. O. Lond. 1900. Bell 5/n (Great Masters in Painting and Sculpture) 927.5 R53 e

Published also by Macmillan, $1.75.

The author shows great familiarity with her subject, and her industry partly compensates for a rather poor command of English. She lacks true appreciation of the charm and distinction of Luca's art and the biographic sketch is somewhat meager, but there are few separate books in English on Luca della Robbia.

Individual authors

Boccaccio

Boccaccio, Giovanni. The Decameron; or, Ten Days' Entertainment of Boccaccio; a revised translation by W. K. Kelley. 545p. por. D. Lond. n.d. Bohn 3/6 Worcester e

The introduction, p.1–13, gives a truthful and pathetic description of the plague in Florence.

These world-renowned stories are valuable in a study of Florence, not only as an important example of native literature, but as a description of the life of the times.

Owen, John. Boccaccio. (see his Skeptics of the Italian Renaissance. 1893. p.128–47) 190 Ow2 e

Shows that Boccaccio contributed more than Dante or Petrarch to the general advancement of culture.

Symonds, John Addington. Giovanni Boccaccio as Man and Author. 101p. O. N. Y. 1895. Scribner $2 Worcester e

Not an exhaustive study, but readable and well adapted to needs of general readers. Brings out Boccaccio's position in Italian letters and society with great distinctness, and his marvelous range has never before been so copiously illustrated. Yet the book does not approach the scholarliness and accuracy that would have been insured had the author lived to finish it.

Dante

Balbo, Cesare, count. Life and Times of Dante Alighieri; tr. from the Italian by F. J. Bunbury. 2v. in 1, O. Lond. 1852. Bentley o.p. 851.15 B1b e

Introduction to v.1 is a sketch of the government of Florence in the 13th century.

One of the standard lives, with the advantage of giving the opinions of a fellow countryman.

Browning, Oscar. Dante; his life and writings. 104p. 1 illus. S. Lond. 1891. Sonnenschein 2/6 (Dilettante Lib.) Worcester e

Published also by Macmillan, 90c.

A good brief account of his life and writings, with notice of some of the best editions of the Divine Comedy.

Carlyle, Thomas. Hero as Poet; Dante. (see his On Heroes, Hero-worship and the Heroic in History. 1897. p.94–120) 824.82 e

Published by Burt, New York, 302p. D, $1.

A vivid picture of Dante and his times, and a vigorous and penetrating exposition of the Divine Comedy.

Published by Houghton, 2v. D, $1.50 each.

Owen, John. Dante. (see his Skeptics of the Italian Renaissance. 1893. p.96–107) 190 Ow2 e

While admitting that Dante was essentially a dogmatist, points out in what respects he was a skeptic.

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel. Dante and his Circle, with the Italian Poets preceding Him. 301p. D. Bost. 1893. Roberts $2 (now Little $1.50) 851.1 e

A collection of lyrics in the original meters, translated with great care. They give a good view of Italian poetry up to Dante's time, but are perhaps more valuable as a contribution to the study of Dante. Includes La vita nuova and poems which Dante addressed to his fellow poets.

Rossetti, Maria Francesca. A Shadow of Dante; being an essay towards studying himself, his world and his pilgrimage. Ed. 5. 294p. por. plan, D. Bost. 1889. Roberts (now Little) $1.50 851.15 e

Chiefly a study of the Divine Comedy. Most useful in following and understanding the narrative of the poem; not a detailed commentary.

Symonds, John Addington. Introduction to the Study of Dante. Ed. 3. 288p. illus. D. Lond. 1893. Adam & Charles Black 7/6 851.15 e

Published also by Macmillan, $2.

The author knows his subject thoroughly, has a refined and sensitive appreciation of literary and poetic art, and combines his knowledge and taste with an intellectual grasp. Spectator, Dec. 28, 1872, 45:1667

Villani, Giovanni. Selections from the First Nine Books of the Croniche Fiorentine of Villani; tr. for the use of students of Dante and others by R. E. Selfe; ed. by P. H. Wicksted. 461p. D. Westminster 1897. Constable 6/ 945.5 V711 e

Published also by Macmillan, $2.

The editors emphasize the fact that the selection has been made to aid in a study of Dante, certain parts reading almost like a commentary. That Villani was a contemporary adds value to his work.

Macaulay, Thomas Babington. Petrarch. (see his Miscellaneous Works. 1899. 4:397–412) Worcester e

Published by Harper, 5v. O, $10.

Owen, John. Petrarca. (see his Skeptics of the Italian Renaissance. 1893 p.107–28) 190 Ow2 e

Portrays Petrarch as the great representative of Italian humanism, and contains an admirable comparison of Dante and Petrarch.

Robinson, James Harvey, & Rolfe, H: W. Petrarch, the first Modern Scholar and Man of Letters. 436p. por. O. N. Y. 1898. Putnam $2 928.51 P444 e

Three fifths of this volume is made up of selections from Petrarch's letters, while the rest consists of introduction and comment by the editors. Petrarch's life, views and character, his friends and the political and literary conditions of his day are so vividly set before us and the letters and explanations are so skilfully fitted together, that the work forms a complete and homogeneous picture of the poet and his times. Specially good for general readers.

FICTION AND POETRY

Alfieri, Vittorio. Conspiracy of the Pazzi. (see his Tragedies. 1876. 2:1–55) Worcester e

Published by Bell 2v. D, 3/6 each.
A drama founded on the historical attempted assassination of Lorenzo de' Medici by the "Conspiracy of the Pazzi."

Austin, Alfred. Savonarola; a tragedy. 306p. D. N. Y. 1891. Macmillan $1.75 822.8 e

The action of the drama extends from the death of Lorenzo to the execution of Savonarola. A good picture of Florence at this most important epoch in her history.

Browning, Mrs Elizabeth (Barrett) & Robert. Florence in the Poetry of the Brownings; a selection of the poems which have to do with the history, the scenery and the art of Florence; ed. by Anna B. McMahan. 230p. illus. D. Chic. 1904. McClurg $1.40 n 821.83 Limi

Contents: Introduction. By E. B. Browning: Casa Guidi Windows; The Dance. By Robert Browning: Old Pictures in Florence; Fra Lippo Lippi; Andrea del Sarto; The Statue and the Bust; The Ring and the Book, book 1; One Word More

The complete works contain other poems having reference to Florence; e. g. "King Victor Emanuel entering Florence, April 1860", by Mrs Browning, and "Luria" and "Sordello", by Robert Browning.

Eliot, George, pseud. Romola. illus. O. N. Y. 1897. Crowell $1.50 Worcester e

Any comment on this masterpiece is superfluous. In spite of being fiction, probably the most valuable single book on Florence. It describes all classes from the lowest to the highest, from the peasant girl to the reigning prince, and weaves into the tragic love story much of the history and politics of the time. Savonarola, if not the central character, is the controlling one of the novel.

Farrington, Margaret Vere. Fra Lippo Lippi; a romance. 225p. illus. O. N. Y. 1890. Putnam $1.50 Worcester e

Gives the traditional facts of his life in the romantic setting of a love story.

Haygood, Atticus Green. Monk and the Prince. 371p. D. Nashville Tenn. 1895. Foote $1 945.5

Hunt, Leigh. Legend of Florence, a play. O. Lond. 1840. Moxon 3/6

Also in editions of his poetical works.

Landor, Walter Savage. Imaginary Conversations. 1881. 828.7 e

Fra Filippo Lippi and Pope Eugenius the Fourth, 2:222–44

Machiavelli and Michel-Angelo Buonarroti, 3:422–39

These "imaginary conversations" are valuable for their characterizations, and are frequently highly amusing in their caricature of famous persons.

Leland, Charles Godfrey, comp. Legends of Florence, collected from the people and retold. 2v. D. N. Y. 1895. Macmillan $1.75 each 398.2 L531 e

Consists almost entirely of legends or traditions of varied character referring to places and buildings in Florence, retold in a way to interest general readers and students of folklore. They bring many new associations to Florentine history.

Longfellow, Henry Wadsworth. Florence. (see his Poems of Places; Italy. 1877. 11:129–68) 808.8 e

Published by Houghton, 31v. S. $1 each.

Poems by famous authors on Florence or directly associated with Florence.

—— Michael Angelo; a fragment. (see his Poetical Works. 1891. 6:45–176) 811.34 J e

Published by Houghton, 6v. D, $1.50 each.

An unfinished poetical drama, having for characters such persons as Michael Angelo, Vittoria Colonna, Vasari and Cellini.

Scott, Leader, pseud. Echoes of Old Florence; her palaces and those who have lived in them. 326p. S. Lond. 1894. Unwin 5/
Worcester e

A series of stories attempting to repeople and revivify some of the old palaces and streets of Florence. Told to the author by an old Italian story-teller, and by her anglicized and set in historical form.

Trollope, Thomas Adolphus. La Beata, a novel. Ed. 2. O. Lond. 1862. Chapman 5/

One feels a breath from the Val d'Arno rustling amid the pages, and a sense of Florentine life such as one rarely gets out of books. The critical objection I should make to it is, that you often spoil the artistic attitude by presenting your characters critically, with an eye to the opinions likely to be formed by certain readers, instead of being totally engrossed with your subject. George Eliot, in Trollope's What I Remember, 1:476

—— Marietta, a novel. Ed. 2. 2v. O. Lond. 1862. Chapman 7/6

A skilfully executed and highly finished picture of middle class life in Florence. Griswold, Novels and Tales dealing with Italy, p.770

Tentative selection from Best Books of 1906

1038 BOOKS OF 1906

To the Librarian

This list of 1038 books selected from the 7139 published in 1906 is submitted to librarians to obtain opinions respecting the best 50 books of 1906 for a VILLAGE LIBRARY. If you will take part in this selection please indicate your choice by marking this list and adding any that you prefer from the annual summary in the Publishers' Weekly of January 26, 1907 to make 50 titles in all. Recommendations should not be made merely on an author's general reputation. No one should vote for a book of which he has not personal knowledge. We should rather have votes for a dozen books you really know, than for 50 which you know only by reputation or hearsay.

Write your name, library and address in the margin and send the list so marked to New York State Library, Albany, N. Y. by May 18, 1907. A summary of results will be sent to all who submit lists.

Apart from its immediate purpose as an annual summary of publications best adapted for public library use, this tentative list should have a permanent value as a supplement to the catalogues and lists published by the American Library Association. It is used in the State Library in compiling lists for libraries and study clubs. No important books should be overlooked, and you are earnestly requested to add any omitted titles which you think should be included. We aim to include all books to which the smaller public libraries should have attention called and to admit nothing which has not a value in meeting some need. This must not, however, be mistaken for a list of books recommended for purchase by small libraries; it is only a list from which to make selections. In general very scholarly or technical books not likely to be called for in the ordinary small library are omitted. The list of books definitely recommended to the smaller libraries will be published later with descriptive notes, and will as heretofore be limited to about 250 titles.
